Smoke Screen Along Boston Waterfront

25 Firemen Overcome, Two Cut Not to Call Extra Session of Congress.

By Glass and Others Narrowly Escaped in Fire at Boston

FIREMEN FLEE AS FLOORS FALL

Boston Waterfront Masked With Smoke From Fire in Wool Waste Building

Hot Air Explosions Spread Flames and Hampered Fire Fighters

BOSTON, June 3.—The waterfront along Atlantic avenue in the vicinity of the South station was masked with smoke for several hours today from a fire in a five-story building running through from Atlantic avenue to Purchase street, and occupied mainly by Foss & Co., Inc., dealers in wool waste.

With the exception of an office on the street floor occupied by Joseph E. Greene, dealer in electrical supplies, the building was filled with bales of wool, which gave off such dense smoke as to make it impossible for the firemen to enter the structure.

Hot air explosions spread the flames through the building rapidly. Twenty-five firemen were temporarily overcome by smoke and two were cut by falling glass, but none required hospital treatment.

The flames were fought from adjoining roofs, fire escapes and with water-towers. Heavy fire walls prevented the blaze from spreading into other buildings.

The firemen expressed the opinion that the fire was due to spontaneous combustion. Early estimates placed the loss at $200,000.

Several Floors Fell

During the fire which burned until nearly noon, several of the floors fell. Two fire chiefs and 13 men who were on the second floor when the floor above collapsed, escaped injury by rushing to the windows as the debris crashed down behind them.

The building was divided into two sections, with fire walls and fire doors between but in an examination of the premises after the flames had been extinguished, firemen said they found a door on the third floor open, permitting the fire to spread to both parts of the building. The state police began an investigation.

SUMMER IS HERE

Can't Call This Real News—Just Hot Air

Summer is here, with all its New England humidity, straw hats, lightweight clothing, crowds seeking cool watering places, bugs fluttering around spitting street lights, and mosquitoes.

Poets used to rave and rant about the New England spring, but that was in other years when this section of the country really had a spring worthy of the name and boast, but now the cycle of seasons seem to have missed a cog or beat, and summer crawls right up into the lap of winter, with no glorious go-between masquerading under the guise of spring.

But what a lot of sham there is to the welcome folks here extend to summer. In one breath they acclaim,

POLITICAL EVENTS LEADING TO CHICAGO BATTLE WAX WARM

Public Sentiment Aroused Against Slush Funds

—Coolidge's Chances Improved—Champ Clark Would Stop Presidential Auction

The question that is agitating republican leaders fully as much as any other, as the date for the Chicago convention draws near, is whether or not Senator Hiram Johnson will adopt a rule or rule policy when he arrives on the scene of activities. Mr. Johnson is going to the convention first and foremost of course to do what he can to advance his own interests as a candidate for the nomination for the presidency. Also he announces that he proposes to fight to the last ditch for the inclusion in the party platform of a plank condemning the peace treaty, with or without reservations, root and branch. The platform as it has been

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

No Elaborate Program Planned Here for Celebration of Independence Day

Lowell's municipal celebration of the Fourth of July this year will not be on an elaborate scale, according to Mayor Perry D. Thompson, if present plans are carried out.

The municipal council included an appropriation of $600 for the observance of the day when it made up the budget last March and this will probably be spent for fireworks and band concerts.

Mayor Thompson said he would bring the matter to the attention of the council at an early meeting for the manner of the observance is for the entire government and no one member to decide.

Last year the observance was confined to fireworks, band concerts, a parade and the ringing of chimers and it is probable that the 1923 observance will be no more elaborate.

There will probably be no parade this year, according to the mayor, unless a strong demand for one makes itself felt. The recent Memorial day parade and the extensive display which will mark the community pageant on the South common next Saturday are considered two factors which will tend to make the members of the city council restrict the Fourth of July observance to the features already outlined.

LOWELL'S SHARE OF STATE TAX

Amount This Year is Largest in History of the City

Heavy Tax Due to Increase in Cost of Labor and Commodities

Lowell's share of the state tax this year will be $298,450, it was announced today, the largest amount the city has ever been called upon to contribute in one year. Last year the city's share of the state tax was $234,520 and Chairman Albert J. Blazon of the local board of assessors says that the increase this year will mean 60 cents additional on the 1920 tax rate. The increase is slightly more than 27 per cent.

The ways and means committee of the house reported the state tax bill of $14,000,000 yesterday which includes the Lowell assessment previously mentioned. The total state tax this year is the largest in the history of the commonwealth and is due to the general

WORK PROGRESSING ON NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Work on the new high school is beginning to assume a more definite shape and signs of progress are evident on all sides. The largest derrick on the site, with a 75-foot boom, continued its work today in moving the steel, which has been blocking progress in the excavating on the Anne street side of the lot for some time, to the centre of the lot, where it is being piled in readiness for assembling upon the cement foundations. As soon as all the steel which was dumped on the land bordering Anne street is removed, Contractor Walker will set his men to work with a steam shovel to finish the excavation. The cement foundation for the building along Kirk street is completed.

This morning a 40-foot jim pole was set up near Kirk street and with its aid the men started to set the steel on the cement bases along the Kirk street side.

AIRPLANES OVER LOWELL
Three airplanes passed over this city today at intervals of half an hour apart. They came from the southeast and went in a northwesterly direction, making no pause or deviation from the straight course. They came over Fort Hill park and as near as could be judged, passed outward over the Pawtucket school.

LAWRENCE MAN MISSING
A man named Murphy, aged about 72 years, has disappeared from his home in Lawrence. The police of this city have received reports that he was seen yesterday in the vicinity of Trull's farm in Andover street. At the time the man left home he wore working clothes, no coat and an old straw hat. If the man is apprehended, the Lowell police have been asked to notify 3356-M, Lawrence.

An unusually large sale of business and dwelling house property in one parcel was announced today through the office of Edward F. Slattery, Jr., embracing the transfer of buildings and land at 614-624 Middlesex street and Perry's court from John I. Williamson to Arthur F. Pease and two associates of Holyoke. The property has a new assessed valuation of $24,000 and covers an area of 13,781 square feet of land.

Included in the property are three dwelling blocks with a total of 28 tenements; a brick garage and three stores. The frontage in Middlesex street approximates 125 feet.

In April a total of 146 permits were issued with an estimated expenditure of $98,443, but this sum included the $50,000 estimated for the new Memorial auditorium.

BUSINESS GOOD AT RECRUITING STATION

Today opened briskly at the navy recruiting station, four men being sent to Boston for life on the seas. Francis Foley of 164 Abbot street, Lawrence, and Joseph Rodgers of 100 Prince street, this city, were forwarded as apprentice seamen. The other two, Barrett Her, 36 Holly street, Lawrence, and John Rynance of 133 Edgeworth avenue, Methuen, are ex-navy men who re-enlisted as seamen. From the Boston station they will be either sent to the receiving ship at Hingham for general detail or, if they request it, they will have the opportunity of joining the crew of two torpedo boats which are fitting out in the Philadelphia navy yard at present previous to a life to Asiatic waters. If the two ex-service men are fortunate enough to have their request granted they will report aboard in time to shove off in July or August.

WARSHIP COSTS $20,000,000

Tennessee, Largest and Most Formidable Battleship Afloat, Launched

Entire Personnel of 631 Recruited From State of Tennessee—625 Feet Long

NEW YORK, June 3.—The super-dreadnought Tennessee, the largest and most formidable battleship afloat, goes into commission today at the Brooklyn navy yard. Formal ceremonies are set for 2.30 o'clock. Constructed here at a cost of $20,000,000, she represents the last word in battleship architecture. She is 625 feet long, has a beam of 95 feet, and a displacement of 32,000 tons. The Tennessee is the first battleship to recruit her entire personnel from the state from which it takes its name, and represents advantages taken from lessons learned in the battle of Jutland and other important naval battles of the world war.

This last special feature, which distinguishes the Tennessee from all other units of the United States navy, is the highly organized "fighting brain" enclosed in a steel fort near the top of the forward mast. Here are concentrated devices for observing enemy ships, a device not known in the battles of Jutland. Special devices are installed in this turret which enable the crew to quickly train the 14-inch guns on the enemy before the crew of any other battleship known could even sight the Tennessee. This new device consists of three decks and their fighting complement is 25 men.

By special signaling devices reports from this fighting top can be flashed instantly to all parts of the ship, thus insuring instant correction of range and rapid fire. This "fighting brain" is filled with mechanical devices for range-finding and other delicate instruments never before used on a battleship.

The Tennessee is believed to have been built with more care for the comfort of her crew than any other battleship in the world. Her size makes possible spacious lockers, baths and recreation quarters. She has a handsome furnished clubroom and library for enlisted men.

She will not actually be put into service until August 1, when she will sail on a practice cruise to Guantanamo, Cuba. Her present crew of Tennesseeans numbers 631. Captain R. H. Leigh is in command.

A large delegation of Tennessee folk is in New York to attend the ceremonies.

SERVICE BUTTONS FOR STATE GUARD MEN

All Lowell men who served in the state guard for at least one year during the world war or for at least 90 days during the Boston police strike will be presented a service button by the adjutant-general of the commonwealth in the near future, according to the terms of a resolve recently passed by the state legislature, a copy of which was received by City Clerk Stephen Flynn today.

The resolve is entitled: "A resolve to provide a service button for certain members of the state guard." In detail it is as follows: "Resolved, that the adjutant-general shall prepare a state guard service button and shall present the same to applicants who served in the state guard for at least one year during the world war or for at least 90 days during the Boston police strike, and for this purpose there be expended a sum of not exceeding $2000."

BARROW, England, May 29.—Airship R-80, built here for the admiralty, will be launched in two or three weeks. She embodies the latest improvements in aircraft design and it is stated that she could fly across the Atlantic with ease.

The vessel is 535 feet in length and 70 feet wide. Her lifting power is 36 tons. Four engines, each of 240 horse power, will give her a maximum speed of 65 miles an hour. She will carry a crew of 15. Originally intended for war purposes, the gun platforms and fighting paraphernalia have been discarded so that more accommodation may be provided for passengers. She may be used to carry tourists over the battlefields of France, and Flanders.

MARTIAL LAW IN GREECE

As Long as Country is at War With Turkey and Treaty is Unsigned

ATHENS, May 31.—Martial law in this country will continue as long as Greece is at war with Turkey and the peace treaty is unsigned. Premier Vamvakis asserted in the chamber of deputies today. Opposition parties, instead of rejoicing over the triumph of their country in the peace conference have taken advantage of the abolition of martial law to start a propaganda for the return of King Constantine, he declared.

"The government," M. Venizelos continued, "does not fear that such manifestations will succeed, but reopening of questions relative to the former king will certainly lead to bloodshed as the opposition parties are desperate, and the large liberal majority is equally determined not to permit the issue to be raised. The government has extended the olive branch to the opposition, which has replied with sedition. The plea that Constantine never abdicated, but relinquished the throne temporarily to his son, is the meanest chicanery. Constantine showed himself an enemy of the liberal powers whose victory has given them a deciding voice in the affairs of the world, and to reopen the question of restoring him would insult the allies. It was only because of my assurance that the question of Constantine was closed for ever so far as the Greeks are concerned, that the allies overcame the hesitation they felt about extending the frontiers of Greece."

BOY WAS INJURED

Anthony Golden, a boy residing at 45 Suffolk street, claims he was struck by an automobile, while witnesses allege he fell from his bicycle and struck his head on the curb. The ambulance removed him to the Lowell Corporation hospital, where he was soon revived and where he told his story of being struck by an automobile. His injuries are not serious.

WARNING TO RAILROADS

Federal Action if Officials do Not Comply With Orders to Relieve Freight Jam

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Warning that the penal provisions of the interstate commerce act would be invoked unless the railroads comply with orders designed to relieve freight congestion was issued yesterday by the interstate commerce commission.

The commission in a telegram to James Willard, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives and service committee, said that inspectors' reports had shown that deliveries of equipment as ordered by the commission were not made. The matter will be investigated, the commission added. The telegram to Mr. Willard was signed by Commissioner Atchison and said:

"The commission desires me to state that the present emergency which led the commission to issue its service orders numbers one, two and three (relative to interchange of freight cars; to abrogation of inter-road contracts and contracts with shippers as to freight routing; and to deviation of freight from regular routes), is of such grave character that full and prompt compliance with the orders in detail must be expected. Reports which come to us from our inspectors throughout the country show that in many instances deliveries of equipment have not been made as requested by service orders two and three. In order, the commission feels it should state to executives or carriers who are represented by the committee of which you are chairman, that prompt, full and literal compliance with these service orders is expected and that violations thereof will be made the subject of inquiry by the commission with the view to institution of proceedings for the enforcement of the penal provisions of the interstate commerce act governing violations of orders of the commission in such cases.

"The commission will appreciate it if you will see that your committee understands our position in this matter and that the policy outlined is communicated to all carriers affected. The public interests to be served in this emergency require immediate and complete compliance with these orders so that the transportation needs of the country may be even partially met. It is hoped that compliance with these service orders will be so prompt and free that there may be no occasion for recourse to the penal sections of the act."

Don't Treat Kidneys. Rough, Warns Dr. Carey, Specialist

Constant Filthiness May Injure the Digestive Organism and Retard the Elimination of Poisons

Now that Dr. Carey, kidney and bladder specialist, has retired from active practice, he generously warns people that even the smallest symptoms of kidney trouble should have serious attention.

Backache, for instance, puffiness under or specks floating before the eyes, heavy feet and dry skin, are also danger signals.

"Thousands die yearly because they neglect their kidneys," says Dr. Carey, "and I feel upon retiring that I should tell all who even suspect kidney or bladder trouble about my prescription, Marshroot, which, during my active practice, has cured thousands of all kinds of kidney ailments."

This prescription has been given to pharmacists generally throughout America and is dispensed by them under the name Dr. Carey's Marshroot, a name that every sufferer from kidney trouble should remember.

REPORTS HIGH PRICE OF SUGAR DUE TO PALMER

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The sugar investigating committee, in a majority report presented to the house, declared that Atty. Gen. Palmer had used his power as chief prosecuting officer of the government, "for the purpose of fixing maximum selling prices of sugar in Louisiana and in so doing acted wholly without authority of law and in violation of his own construction of his official duty."

The report prepared by Representative Husted, republican, New York, as chairman, charged that the legislative method adopted by the attorney general was "wholly ineffective as a means of price control," and that "it gave apparent governmental sanction to extreme high sugar prices, which excited the cupidty of Cuban producers and Representatives Whaley, South Carolina, and Sumners, Texas, democratic members of the judiciary subcommittee which conducted the investigation, refused to sign the report and announced that they would file a minority report. Republican members, including Chairman Husted, who agreed in the findings, were Representatives Classon, Wisconsin, and Boies, Iowa.

Mr. Palmer insisted before the committee that he had not fixed sugar prices, but had merely stated the position of the department as to prosecution for profiteering, that Louisiana planters selling at more than 17 and 15 cents wholesale would be prosecuted under the Lever act.

There were eight findings in the majority report, the resolution introduced by Representative Tinkham, Massachusetts, calling for an investigation confining the committee inquiry to Louisiana transactions.

COAL BILL REPORTED

Revives Act of 1917 for a Coal Administrator—Storow Urges Action

BOSTON, June 3.—The ways and means committee yesterday reported in the Massachusetts house of representatives a bill to revive the act of 1917 for a coal administration and continue its provisions until January 1, 1922.

James J. Storow, formerly New England fuel administrator, who appeared before the joint ways and means committee of the legislature yesterday to urge Gov. Coolidge's request for an appropriation of $25,000 to be expended in connection with the coal administration, declared that New England will not obtain half of the coal imperative for next winter's needs unless immediate action were taken.

Hundreds of thousands of tons which ought to be coming to New England are now being shipped to foreign countries, Mr. Storow declared.

Immediate action must be taken by Massachusetts, Mr. Storow insisted, since congress is about to adjourn. President Wilson, he added, might be able to accomplish something, in view of the fact that his wartime powers still remain.

What this state most needs, he declared, is an official at Washington with sufficient power to secure coal for this section. The full appropriation of $25,000, he believed, would be required to meet the expenses of maintaining a coal administration. Mr. Storow declared he would be reluctant to act as fuel administrator himself, although he might be willing to do so, if necessary, to serve the public.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation. If you write to me, Eugene M. SEC. DANIELS AT ANNAPOLIS

Says Efficiency of Navy Depends Upon Boldness to Attempt Things Untried

Must Cast Off "Slavery to Tradition"—Presents Diplomas to 289 Graduates

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 3.—Upon the spirit and will of its officers to cast off "slavery to tradition" and venture into the realm of things untried, depends the future strength and efficiency of the American navy, Secretary Daniels told the graduating class of midshipmen at the naval academy here today, in presenting diplomas to its 289 members.

Citing as an object lesson the navy's record of resourcefulness in the world war, as best exemplified in the North sea, the secretary delivered an earnest appeal to the young officers not to let the weight of accepted theories restrain their efforts to keep American sea power at the forefront in strategy and invention.

"To some men, tradition is a taskmaster, a hard rule, a beaten path," the secretary declared. "To others it is a star in the firmament, a light to the pathway, wings on which to mount for clearer vision and wiser action, to win the goal, not by precedent or rule, but by an illumination that is spirit and not deed."

"No two wars were ever won by the same tactics and few by the same weapons. The military leader of the future may navigate his ships by radio and the day may even come when all his fighting craft may be air navies, battling in the central blue."

Coupling with his admonition against diffidence and skepticism toward the untried a reference to the "doubt and delay among naval statesmen," in accepting the American navy's proposal for the North sea barrage, Secretary Daniels declared that the spirit that gave birth to that "great and original conception" won for the navy the honor of contributing the "outstanding offensive" against the submarine menace. "Let that be a tradition to incite you to never heights than have ever been attained," he added.

"The American tradition of boldness and audacity," the secretary continued, "enforced by world war achievement, will save you from the danger of a slavish adherence to tradition, or precedent in method while heartening you with the guiding realization that the tradition of daring and audacity is bounded by no limits or possibilities or miracles."

The secretary told the young officers that they were to be congratulated upon the coming into the navy "in a day when it holds—and holds deservedly—a higher place in the confidence of the American people than in any period of its history."

PRES. SAN FUEENTES SAYS CHILE'S INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS ARE MOST CORDIAL

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 3.—Chile's international relations are most cordial, President San Fuenfientes declared today in opening parliament. The only exception to this rule, he declared, was the situation between Chile and Peru. In dealing with Peru, he said, Chile was disposed to adhere strictly to the principles which she had followed in the past.

Bad Complexions Peeled Off at Home

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, and only my makeup saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is unnecessary, now that the virtues of ordinary mercerized wax as a beautifier have become known. It has been found that the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discolored scarf skin to flake off in minute, almost imperceptible particles, so that gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is actually removed—like-wise all fine lines, freckles, pimples, blotches, moth patches and other surface defects. A new complexion appears—a clear, smooth, youthful, healthy-hued skin such as no rouge, powder or cream can produce. Mercerized wax, to be had at any drug store in convenient size package is applied like cold cream and allowed to remain on every night.—Adv.

Wheeler Urges U. S. Government to "Place Itself Underneath Business"

CINCINNATI, June 3.—Speaking before the Cincinnati chamber of commerce, Harry A. Wheeler, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, urged that "the government place itself underneath business in a helpful way, especially in the export field, just as England and other countries have done."

It is this "getting underneath," he said, "that accounted for the success of Great Britain in the world's markets, and until the United States government gives the same consideration and assistance to its businessmen in foreign countries the American exporter will be at a disadvantage," he declared.

Mr. Wheeler insisted, among other things, that American concerns desiring to operate in foreign countries in interesting foreign capital in enterprises he given chapters from the United States government instead of operating under state charters, which, he said, mean practically nothing to prospective investors abroad.

PALMER DENIES CHARGE

Replies to Bonniwell's Statement That He Lifted Dry Lid for Primary

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(By Associated Press.)—A fiery cross-tale between Atty. Gen. Palmer and Eugene C. Bonniwell of Philadelphia, bristling with direct charges of the misuse of federal power to let down the liquor bars during the Pennsylvania presidential primaries on the one hand and of attempted "character assassination" on the other, marked the senate investigation yesterday of pre-convention campaign expenditures.

The attorney general appeared unexpectedly in the committee room during the luncheon recess, after Mr. Bonniwell had launched a broadside of charges, including a sweeping assertion that the whole Palmer campaign in Pennsylvania had been a "ghastly and degrading degradation of law."

Mr. Bonniwell was recalled to the stand to finish his testimony and Mr. Palmer, the first candidate for a presidential nomination to appear at the inquiry, took a seat across the table from the witness, who, it was brought out, was a political enemy of long standing.

Impending Clash Draws Crowd

News of the impending verbal clash spread rapidly and the hearing room soon was crowded. When Mr. Bonniwell concluded Mr. Palmer replied, opening his statement with the charge that Mr. Bonniwell had employed "character assassination" methods against him in Pennsylvania for years and concluding it with the assertion that in Pennsylvania "Judge Bonniwell's word is not evidence of fact."

Echoes of the combat had hardly died away before a new element was injected into the committee's deliberations with the flat refusal of Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, to attend further sessions. In announcing that he had notified the chairmen of the full committee and the subcommittee of his decision, the senator said he believed approximate figures on all pre-convention expenditures had been obtained and that further inquiry would result only in the airing of "charges, counter-charges, intimations and insinuations." He added that no federal law had been broken as there was no federal presidential primary law to break.

Ask About Plumb Plan League

Before Mr. Palmer appeared in the committee room the committee had inquired into the activities of the Plumb Plan League, made further efforts to run down a presidential campaign for W. G. McAdoo and had heard two officials of oil companies who had been mentioned in previous testimony as possible large contributors to political campaigns.

Edward Keating, manager of the Plumb Plan League, declared the league had taken no part in any pre-convention political activity, had not contributed any money and did not plan to participate in the convention struggles. He added, however, that it did seek to defeat members of congress who voted for the transportation act.

Mrs. Antoinette Funk of Illinois, active in Liberty loan drives and later for the democratic national committee, declared positively that no campaign for obtaining the democratic presidential nomination for McAdoo, direct or indirect, existed, much to her "regret."

H. F. Sinclair, New York, of the oil company bearing his name, declared he had made no campaign contributions or been otherwise active politically, and Norman Bridges, connected with the Doheny oil interests, testified that he had contributed $1000 to Gen. Wood's candidacy, but otherwise knew nothing of any campaign.

Raised $115,000 For Johnson

Mr. Rosseter said approximately $115,000 was raised for Johnson in California. A budget had been made up, he testified, in the expectation that $20,000 would be spent in each of ten primary states; and altogether that $200,000 would be needed.

"As time went on, and Mr. Hoover came in," he continued, "we found many people we relied upon were contributors there. I had given $500 and subsequently raised my contribution to $7500, which was the largest single amount coming to my knowledge."

"Delegates from Southern California got up a little pool of their own, I don't know how much. We asked the southern people to take care of themselves."

Mr. Rosseter was asked if he knew anything of the expenditures made in the campaign for Herbert Hoover in California.

"I am not informed," he responded, "except that we of the Johnson committee were aghast at the expenditures coming under our notice. In the way of newspaper advertising and other things, like the report of workers hired at the polls."

With the completion of Mr. Rosseter's

Girls! BUTTERMILK CREATES BEAUTY OVERNIGHT

The first application of Howard's Buttermilk Cream will astonish you. It creates beauty almost like magic, but the most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull and most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least thinness or greasiness of the skin.

It is absolutely harmless and will neither produce or stimulate the growth of hair. Within twenty-four hours this wonderful combination called Howard's Buttermilk Cream will work a marvelous transformation. Carter & Sherburne Co., Fred Howard, 197 Central St., can supply you. WILL CHANGE THE WORDING OF DEEDS

Chairman William H. Rigby of the board of cemetery commissioners, was instructed at the regular meeting of that body late yesterday afternoon to confer with the city solicitor relative to changing the wording of deeds issued to those who purchase lots in the public cemeteries. At the present time the cemetery department gets $2 each for the care of lots, but owing to the increase in wages more revenue must be had.

It was pointed out that charges for care on lots already sold cannot be raised, but that from now on extra revenue may be derived from new lots.

Other matters which were discussed at the meeting included minor damage in the Edison and Westlawn cemeteries, the excellent appearance of the cemetery on Memorial day and the purchase of a Ford truck for the superintendent of the Westlawn cemetery.

HOUSING PROBLEMS BEING STUDIED

LONDON, June 3.—Housing problems, made acute all over the world by the war, are being studied by several hundred delegates to the first international housing and town planning congress, which opened its sessions at Central hall, Westminster, today. Representatives of a score of nations are in attendance.

One of the chief aims of the congress will be the formulation of a scheme of international application by which every family may be provided with proper housing within a period of 20 years.

REWARD OF $500

Legioners Seek Capture of Bergdoll, Draft Dodger

GREENSBURG, Ind., June 3.—John Welsh post, American Legion, of this city, has offered a reward of $500 for the capture of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the wealthy Philadelphia draft evader, who escaped recently from two army sergeants.

A veteran commercial traveler, whose home is in New York, estimates that in forty-odd years on the road he has slept in at least 500 different beds.

Children We Worry About

Close confinement to school during the past winter, overstudy perhaps, an attack of the grip or tonsillitis, some one of these things is doubtless responsible for the condition of the child who shows a decline in health now.

What are the symptoms? Pallor and languor, a sickle appetite, dark rings under the eyes, bronchial colds. Very often the best efforts of the family physician fail in such cases and the condition of the child causes the most intense anxiety. Cod-liver oil, so often prescribed, generally fails because the weak stomach is unable to digest fats.

Try this treatment. Before breakfast each morning, give the child the juice of half an orange. After the noon meal give one of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Keep this up for a few days then give one of the pills after the evening meal also. Weigh the child before beginning the treatment and again after two weeks. An increase in weight of from two to five pounds will show you that you are on the right track at last. Care is necessary in the diet of the patient and it will be well to send to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the book "What To Eat and How To Eat." Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box.—Adv.

SELLS FLOTO CIRCUS

COMING THURSDAY

William D. Casey, who has been coming to this city in the interest of various amusement enterprises so long that the mind of man runneth not to the contrary, was here today, full of pep, promise and enthusiasm, for the Sells-Floto circus, which is to make its bow to Lowell next Thursday, June 10.

"There are circuses better known locally than Sells-Floto," said Mr. Casey, "but this is readily explained by the fact that it is a western organization and has rarely been seen east of Chicago. Last season the show introduced itself to Boston and New England, and its success was so pronounced that a more comprehensive tour, comprising all the eastern and central states has been planned for the present year. The circus to be played, in addition to this one, includes Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Boston and New York. The show opened the season at the mammoth coliseum in Chicago, playing there to enormous business, and attracting phenomenal attention. The consensus of opinion in that city was that a more novel or up-to-date circus performance had never been seen there. It is now exhibiting to big business in Boston.

"This is not surprising in view of the unusually noted and high-salaried features offered by the show. The famous Hannaford family, with 'Poodles' Hannaford, the irrepressible riding clown, who created a sensation at the New York hippodrome all last winter.

Gas in the Stomach is Dangerous

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble. Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any drug-gist a few ounces of Bisulphated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloating out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize too excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisulphated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. Liggett's Riker-Jaynes Drug Stores.—Adv.

tor, and who are now among the many features with the Sells-Floto circus, are an index to the character of the performance. There are, however, many other features. The Codonas and Flying Nelsons are among the world's greatest aerialists; Berta Beeson and LaFelle Victoria are the champions of all wire dancers; the flying ballet offers 12 comely young women, all of whom go through the most beautiful posturing while suspended in the dome of the big tent by their teeth; the French family LeGros present the most remarkable display of acrobatic contortion ever seen in a circus, and there are many others. Three herds of acting elephants and other trained animals, and a gorgeous spectacle for good measure surely fill out a program that it would be difficult to surpass anywhere on earth. Will there be a parade? You said it and it will surprise you by its magnitude and novelty as well as the number and splendid character of the horses."

Plant Reopens Under Guard

one-half of the 4700 operatives usually employed, reported for work.

The workers poured into the main gate of the factory through streets patrolled by national guardsmen mounted and on foot under Adjutant General Charles W. Abbott Jr. The guardsmen have been on duty since Governor Beekman declared the town in a state of insurrection last Friday because of rioting. Returning employees met with no interference or picketing activities from the strikers, who walked out a month ago because of dissatisfaction with a readjustment of the wage scale. The strikers, however, held their strength, the absentees today being almost double the number of those who participated in the original walkout.

Operators Threatened

When questioned in their homes by General Abbott as to their reasons for returning to work when offered the opportunity under military protection, several women operatives said they feared violence and gave him the names of one or two men who, they said, were active spirits in a group engaged in spreading a propaganda of intimidation. As a result of information thus obtained a conference of military officials was held, after which it was announced that Major Dubois, the judge advocate of the guard, would proceed immediately to have Angelo M. Chozzelli, considered one of the strike leaders, brought to trial on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon now pending against him. A change of venue from Bristol county to Providence county will be asked, it is said.

The extent to which the factory force ready for duty fell short of operating requirements was indicated by a statement of company officials. It was said that 300 of the 700 clerks, machinists, carpenters and firemen reported and that only 100 of the 1400 operatives in the "making" department regarded as the hub of operations, were on hand. In the other departments early figures indicated about 50 per cent of the operatives still out.

As the total available did not constitute an efficient working force, company officials held a conference later in the day to consider what the future policy should be.

Summer is Here

Continued

"Summer is here" and in the next "isn't it hot?" You cannot satisfy us. Mr. Weather Man, if you take away our springtime, because it was during those days that we generated the "pep" to carry through a broiling summer without wilting entirely.

But, when all is said and done, Lowell folks today, yesterday, Tuesday, Sunday and Saturday have enjoyed the weather they have longed for in the midst of ice, snow and cold only a few short weeks ago. More than ever before, summer should be appreciated this year, after a winter which took all the prizes for trick snow storms and disagreeable weather.

The high temperatures of the past few days caused by a sun traveling through a cloudless sky have brought foodstuffs out of the ground as if drawn by a magnet. A rainy spell preceded it and continued so long, in fact, that farmers grumbled and registered grave concern as to the welfare of their crops. Then came the sun and rising temperature and every huddling and blossoming thing seemed to flower and leaf out almost over night.

Right along this same line of summer complaint, it may be truthfully said that the greatest industry in Lowell for the past fortnight has been hat cleaning. There are new ones walking about, but never so many old ones revamped in an effort to curtail living expenses and, therefore, the furious clean-up.

Any comment upon the shadowy creations of rare beauty now being worn is not necessary. Whatever adornment summer requires, the female of the species furnishes. Petching indeed are winter furs and trim suits, but oh, you warm weather raiment!

WOMAN SUFFERED IN SILENCE

Health Poor, Beauty Fast Fading Away—Made Believe She Was Well

A business woman writes: "There must be lots of women who feel as I did. I suffered in silence many times on account of my pride, but now I know that a good laxative is essential to good health. I neglected my health trying to keep cheery and pretending I was all right when I wasn't. I had terrible pains, was 'grouchy' and my head aches almost killed me with pain, and worst of all from my viewpoint I had a sallow, unbecoming complexion which was not helped by face powders. Why didn't I try to cure myself rather than pretend? After taking Dr. True's Elixir, I now know that a laxative was what I needed. Dr. True's Elixir is mild and pleasant to take, and works just right for me. My complexion cleared up—bright and ruddy—blemishes vanished and everyone remarked how much better I looked."—Mrs. E. J. B. New Auburn, Me.

The root of many of the evils of sickness is the bowels, a very vital part of the human body.

A cold, a fever, diseases or the like can be remedied at once, providing the operation of the bowels is normal—the first and most important relief can be had by giving a Laxative, but be sure it is the proper kind.

Most everybody in these days of quick action and strife, forget their health. The laboring people bolt down their meals, often go to bed right after eating, and wake up in the morning restless, force down a breakfast and then are distressed all day.

An Outdoor Worker says: "I couldn't puzzle out what made me feel so bad. My good, home-cooked meals didn't even taste good, and I had headaches and was grouchy. I never thought it was constipation, but now I know, for I took four little doses of your Dr. True's Elixir, and it fixed me up grand. I will never be without it again in case of constipation."—F. B. B. Allston, Mass.

The bowels need attention first and always. Rich foods, improper cooking, irregular and quick eating, lack of exercise can all be offset providing a mild laxative is taken regularly.

A Business Man writes: "The continual rush of office details and the short meal hours I get, together with, I think, restaurant foods, has simply knocked my system all to pieces. I felt logy, and had no appetite until I took Dr. True's Elixir, as a Laxative. It is a great thing. No one should neglect their bowels."—Boston Business Man.

Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, with an established reputation since 1851 (over 65 years) has accomplished the seemingly impossible. It has relieved thousands upon thousands of sufferers from constipation, which causes so many terrible disorders.

Dr. True's Elixir will benefit every one: The laborer who eats heartily and quickly; the office boy and girl who eat "fancies" and irregularly; elderly people who can't digest well and children who suffer from intestinal parasites.

Dr. True's Elixir means a big saving to health and pocketbook. At all drug-gists. Three sizes, 10c, 50c, $1.00. Buy the large size.—Adv.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Leo J. Healy and Miss Mary E. Steele, two prominent young people of St. Peter's parish, were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at St. Peter's rectory, the ceremony being performed by Rev. D. J. Jefferson.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary Healy, a sister of the groom, and both the bride and bridesmaid were attired in white georgette crepe and carried shower bouquets of bridal roses. The best man was a brother of the groom, Mr. Paul A. Healy. At the close of the ceremony the bride party repaired to the home of William H. Regan, 16 Linden street, where a wedding supper was served, followed by a brief reception. The happy couple, who were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts left later in the evening on a honeymoon trip and after July 1 they will be at home to their friends at 193 Appleton street.

For two days a pocketbook containing four $500 bills and two $1000 bills lay unnoticed in the bottom of an automobile owned by John Saropian, a barber at Whitinsville. It belonged to an Armenian woman whom Mr. Saropian brought from Worcester to Whitinsville. The next two days he used his car to take parties around. When he got home after the second day he found the Worcester woman, much agitated, waiting for him, and under the robe in the car the pocketbook was found.

PROFESSION OF REALTOR ON A LEGAL PLANE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—To place the profession of the realtor on a legal plane, affording the client the same protection that surrounds medicine and the law, is the supreme purpose of a special committee on real estate litigation, the report of which was submitted today to the convention of the National association of real estate boards in 13th annual session here.

"The year 1919, was one of prosperity for real estate men generally," said Judson Bradway, Detroit, chairman of the committee in submitting the report. "but not until the years to come will the average realtor realize that during the year past a new era for real estate profession began and obtained a tremendous impetus, which must not and will not cease until the name 'realtor' stands with the names 'lawyer' and 'doctor' and will mean to the public that the man entitled to use that name is qualified mentally and by experience, to give proper and honest service to his clients."

To bring that condition about, the committee urged that the convention go on record as favoring the adoption by states of stringent laws governing real estate operations.

MANCHESTER ARTISTS AT OPERA HOUSE

"The Chimes of Normandy," was presented at the Lowell Opera House last evening by l'Union Musicale of Manchester, N. H., an organization composed of some of the best French-speaking talent of the Queen city. Unfortunately the audience was not very large, this being due probably to the heat. Nevertheless those present thoroughly enjoyed the play which was ably and artistically presented. The leading roles were sustained by Miss Blanche Blondie and Mr. Thomas J. Bole. Miss Blondie is possessed of a charming soprano voice, while Mr. Bole is a bariitone of rare ability. Walter Richard and Mrs. Henri Doucet scored highly in the comic roles, both being exceptionally good singers and clever actors. The chorus work was excellent and reflected credit upon the musical director, Mr. Homer Munseu. A share of the credit for the artistic success also goes to Mr. Pierre T. Perreault, under whose able direction the play was given.

Others who took part in the play were J. O. Gelinas, Zoel Dufour, Paul Gingras, M. Morin, Miss Corinne Provencher, Miss Yvonne Ballard, Miss Donalds E. Goupil, Miss Cora Belliveau and Miss Rose A. Billy.

Ward's ORANGE-CRUSH and LEMON-CRUSH —cloudiness

Have you ever noticed the cloudy appearance of Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush while enjoying these rare-flavored drinks?

The reason for this cloudiness is also the reason for the unequalled deliciousness of Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush—for it is caused by the uniform distribution throughout the drinks of thousands of minute particles of the actual fruit oil pressed from freshly-picked oranges and lemons.

The interesting process which has made this possible was perfected five years ago by N. C. Ward, and is exclusive with Orange-Crush Company. It marks one of the greatest steps forward ever taken in the preparation of soft-drinks, for it brings to you, without preservatives, the pure, delightful flavors which have made oranges and lemons the favorite fruits in every home. The cloudiness is your guarantee of genuineness, flavor and quality.

The booklet, "The Story of Ward's Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush," gives full details regarding the making of these drinks. It shows how the delicate flavors are obtained by combining the fruit oils with purest granulated sugar and citric acid—the natural acid of oranges and lemons.

Send for this free booklet today. You will better understand why Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush enjoy the largest sale of any fruit-flavored drinks in the world.

SUIT AGAINST EXPRESS COMPANY

The case of James T. Brown of this city vs. the American Express Co., an action of tort in the sum of $5,000, went to trial at the jury session of the superior court this morning. Justice Foodick presiding. In this case the plaintiff claims that on or about Dec. 15, 1917, while in the employ of the defendant company at the railroad station in this city, he fell and received a fracture of the arm as well as other bodily injuries. He claims his fall was due to the negligence of the servant and agents of the company. The company in its answer claims if any injury was caused it was due in whole or in part to the negligence of the plaintiff.

prepared in rough draft by Senator Lodge and associates, and that is now on its way to Chicago, contains only tentative declarations on the subject of the treaty. These are later to be laid before the party chiefs assembled in conference in the convention city and put into final form for consideration by the committee on resolutions.

Afraid to Condemn

That the party leaders will permit any such program of unqualified condemnation as is proposed by Senator Johnson, does not seem to be within the realm of possibilities. Such action would stultify the record of Lodge and other senate leaders of the party who have labored for over a year to secure the ratification of the treaty with reservations. The party leaders realize that outright condemnation of the treaty would not place the party in a favorable attitude before the country. But if they refuse Johnson's nomination that he seeks and reject his treaty plank, they face the possibility of his holding the convention and its nominees and starting a third party of his own. It is no secret that Chairman Cummings of the democratic national committee, and others of prominence in his party, are hoping that this is just what will happen at Chicago.

Dark Horse Candidate

The feeling that Governor Coolidge's chances of securing the republican nomination as a dark horse candidate seems to be growing stronger and more widespread as the time for the balloting draws near. Strangely enough the belief that Coolidge may prove a man of destiny really fitted to meet the needs of the hour is more prevalent apparently away from home than it is here in Massachusetts, where his name is often mentioned in a complimentary way and the wish that the honor of a nomination might come to the state, but with faint hopes expressed that such outcome is probable. There are indications that while members of the Massachusetts delegation will give their outward support to the governor, they will do so with a mental reservation that they are laboring for a cause that is doomed in advance to defeat. Also there are known to be influential elements in the party here at home that would not be over much pleased to see the governor nominated.

Steam Roller at Work

The steam roller of the republican national committee meantime is being operated with a precision and speed that is reminiscent of old times in preparing the convention rolls. The delegations from the south are as usual furnishing the most fertile field for its operations. There are 137 seats the title to which is to be determined. In the few decisions that have been arrived at there are indications that the committee has ceased to look upon the Wood candidacy with as much favor as was formerly the case, and that there are elements in the committee which are inclined to consider Lowden or Johnson as being more available than the army man for the nomination.

Relating to Mexico

It seems to have been practically settled that the platform plank dealing with our relations with Mexico will be of an ultra-belligerent nature. It is likely to follow in some measure the lines of the report of the subcommittee of the senate's committee on foreign relations in his party, are hoping southern neighbor clean house at once on pain of having the United States step in and undertake the job. There will be also the inducement held out for a prompt beginning of the cleaning-up process that when it is completed this country shall lend its credit to the rehabilitation of Mexico on an extended scale.

Women to the Front

Women will be represented on the floor of the convention both by delegates and alternates. It is also announced that a party that may include several thousand, intends to make its descent upon Chicago with the intention of forcing through the adoption of a suffrage plank that will be fully acceptable to them. Since suffrage has ceased to be a subject of national political interest and disagreement the women are likely to get what they want. About the only practical worth of such a plank is the influence that it might possibly exert upon the republican legislature of Connecticut to ratify the amendment when it meets, provided it has not been previously given the sanction of the required number of states. The women are aware that it will require the strongest kind of persuasion to overcome the determined opposition to their cause by Senator Brandegee and his followers in the legislature.

The Bonus Plank

The plank that will deal with the payment of a bonus to the veterans of the world war is also troubling the republican platform makers. They are naturally anxious to furnish the proper bait to capture the soldier vote. They are not sure what the bait should be, however. On the one hand, it is asserted that only about a fifth of the membership of the American Legion is in favor of a bonus as proposed and that the other four-fifths of the former soldiers would turn their backs upon the party, if it should approve the expenditure of several billions of dollars in behalf of the men, a large majority of whom, they assert, do not want exceptional benefits from the public treasury.

The "Slack" Funds

Altogether, according to testimony that has been given before the senate investigating committee, the three leading republican candidates—Wood, Lowden and Hoover—have spent a total of nearly three and a half million dollars in their efforts to capture the presidential nomination. Wood's expenditures reach the imposing total, it is generally believed, of two and a half million dollars. Hoover spent $300,000 in his effort to win in California alone. Lowden claims that all of the $400,000 that has been spent in his behalf has come out of his own pocket. Whether or not it has, his payment for services rendered, or expected to be rendered, has been on a prodigious scale. In Pennsylvania his agents admit having forced money on men who were reluctant to take it. In Missouri, where no primaries were held, $35,000 of Lowden money was handed over to insure the good will of the delegates toward the Lowden cause although no efforts were made to have them instructed.

Whence came the money?

Not much information has been allowed to reach the public as to the sources from which the big campaign funds have been gathered, but such as has leaked out has been of a character that has not brightened the outlook for republican success in November. Aside from Col. Proctor, of soap fame, who appeared in the limelight for an hour as a man who was willing to spend half a million for the realization of his "ideal" of seeing Gen. Wood nominated, and who says that he has no hopes of personal gain, it has been revealed that one of the principal contributors of Wood funds has been Herbert L. Satterlee, son-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan and close to the big interests, financial and otherwise, which are commonly grouped under the head of "big business." Gov. Lowden's chances have not been helped by the fact that he is commonly referred to as the son-in-law of the Pullman Car company, and is believed to be very acceptable as a candidate to the railroad interests which will be supplants for governmental favors of many kinds during the next few years.

Champ Clark's Move

To put a stop to the auctioning off of presidential nominations to the highest bidder in the future, former Speaker Champ Clark has had introduced into the national house of representatives a bill with teeth in it which will put a crimp in the use of such methods in the future if it is adopted. It is believed that even a republican congress will look with favor upon such legislation viewed from the standpoint of recent events that it is admitted have irreparably injured the party.

Clark as a Candidate

Although the friends of Champ Clark have not made quite so much noise as the adherents of some of the other aspirants for the democratic nomination, there is a strong undercurrent of feeling in his favor. Here in Lowell, which may be taken as furnishing an index to conditions in other parts of New England, the former speaker's name is frequently mentioned both by party leaders and the rank and file as that of a man whose proved abilities and long experience in governmental affairs make him exceptionally available as a candidate who would make a strong appeal to the voters for support. It is recalled that Clark entered the democratic convention of eight years ago with a clear two-thirds of the delegates ready to vote for him for the nomination and that it was only his own vigorous adherence to a course of action that he believed was right that prevented the honor going to him.

Edwards to the Front

An interesting feature of the democratic pre-convention canvass is the prominence that Gov. Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey is assuming as a candidate for the nomination. He has a strong following here in New England as well as in other parts of the country. Several members of the Massachusetts delegation, it is known, are ready to vote for him, but whether they number the necessary two-thirds of the membership that is required under democratic procedure to cast the vote of the state in his favor is unknown. The final action of the delegation will be largely determined by developments at San Francisco.

McAdoo and Palmer

Former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has the strong support of a large part of the labor element and it is claimed in his behalf that his nomination would line up some millions of voters connected with organized labor solidly behind him. The principal objection to his nomination is that he would represent the "crown prince" idea of establishing a dynasty of succession to the presidency in one family. Judge from the attacks that are being launched against him from republican sources, Atty. Gen. Palmer is the prospective candidate that is most feared by the opposition. He will enter the convention with a goodly number of votes pledged in his favor and with the hearty good will behind him of many of the delegates who are unpledged.

Cox May Win

In all prognostications regarding the outcome of the San Francisco convention, the name of Gov. Cox has a leading place. His abilities as a leader, his sound record as an executive and the fact that he could probably hold his own state, in the democratic column are cited as qualifications for his selection as party standard bearer.

AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL MASTERS SUCCEEDED IN PLANS FOR INVADING GERMAN INDUSTRY

BERLIN, June 3.—American iron and steel masters have every reason to congratulate themselves on the success of their plans for invading German industry, says Vorwaerts. The newspaper asserts that recent large purchases of German iron and steel shares, ostensibly for Dutch account, were really for American account, and that at the next board meetings of these German firms, remarkable disclosures will be made.

Judging from the success that has attended the methods used in the breaks for liberty by prisoners of Massachusetts penal institutions, the ventilating shafts of most of the establishments should be due for a rigid and minute examination.

Mr. Hoover's publicity league has been in charge of Edward Lyne Hunt. That middle name is suggestive of the source from which a good many of the campaign yarns of all the candidates in the republican presidential race may have emanated.

The Sun extends its congratulations and best wishes to the ten young women who graduated from the Lowell General Hospital training school for nurses yesterday. The career upon which they have started offers more than the usual number of opportunities for helpful service.

It looks as if there isn't going to be much bituminous coal left for our New England manufacturers unless something is done to curtail the supply that is going to Great Britain and other European countries. There are other things besides charity that should begin at home.

The mayor has 28 more days in which to select the members of the Lowell charter commission. During that time he should be able to pick a body of representative men who will completely put aside political considerations and personal prejudices and opinions and thoroughly and carefully study civic needs from the sole viewpoint of what is best for the city.

The people of the Highlands want the closed Westford street fire station reopened to furnish them with better fire protection. The mayor says that with the station closed they have better protection than was the case when the station was open. Such diverse opinions on the same subject seem to bear a resemblance to an irresistible force meeting an immovable object.

George Holden Tinkham, congressman from Massachusetts, blames President Wilson for the sugar shortage. If Mr. Tinkham could get a glimpse of the books showing dividend payments of the big sugar refining companies—that are owned mainly by republicans—he might revise his opinions. It isn't very probable that he would, though, for Mr. Tinkham is looking for a democratic seagoat upon which to fasten the blame for our lack of sugar and not for the real cause of the near-famine conditions that exist.

A SUB-POST OFFICE

It is unfortunate that Lowell's post office is located so far from the business heart of the city in Merrimack square. Since it is placed where it is and it is not practical to change the site, the members of the chamber of commerce, and other leaders in the city's commercial world, should see to it that the proposal to establish a sub-station at some point readily accessible is promptly carried out.

The project should not be allowed to become quiescent because there has been no acceptable response made to the advertisement for bids for the furnishing of suitable quarters. There should be, and doubtless are, buildings suitable for the purposes in question that can be secured for the government's use if diligent search is made for them. From now until June 10—the latest date when bids in answer to Postmaster McEahan's call may be submitted—such a search should be conducted with vigor and thoroughness.

EXPPOSE THE "HECKLERS"

It is time the government should take in those so-called "Irish Hecklers" and investigate by whom or by what agency they have been financed and drawn from widely distant cities at the same time, without the knowledge of any friend of Ireland. So far as can be judged their aim is to make the Irish ridiculous and thus confirm the lies of the Tory British press, that the Irish are riotous, lawless, disoriented and irresponsible.

When these Washington hecklers paraded up and down in front of the British embassy in Washington, they did what no sensible friend of Ireland would do. The Sun correspondent at the capital made some investigation as to the identity of these paraders and found there was not an Irish woman among them. At that time the leaders were actresses; their action was calculated to alienate the sympathy of the American people for the Irish cause. Their action in the senate and house on Tuesday could not fail to have the same effect. Their object now is, to prevent the house and senate from adopting even the substitute for the Mason resolution.

Daniel T. O'Connell, director of the Friends of Irish Freedom, declared that the heckling was wholly without authority from anybody connected with the Friends of Irish Freedom. Mr. O'Connell should have them investigated and exposed. They are doing the work of Ireland's worst enemies.

BOODLE CANDIDATES

Unintentionally perhaps, the present senate has done a good thing in exposing the scandalous extent to which money is being used by many of the candidates for the presidency in their campaign for delegates. The exposure of the Wood millions caused a sensation; but not a whit more so than the latest revelation that Governor Lowden's manager dumped $39,000 into the state of Missouri in order, if possible, to carry the delegation for him. Some of those who received lump sums with which to influence the vote told the senate committee that they had not spent it and intended to return it to Governor Lowden in case he should not be nominated.

What other conclusion can be drawn from such political methods than that the agents of the candidates are distributing money for the purpose of influencing if not buying votes?

It is high time such corrupt methods were stopped. Congress is discussing plans by which the expenditures of such campaigns will be limited to what is unavoidable.

Already the people are convinced that General Wood and his managers are the leaders in the excessive use of money in the campaign. These boodle methods are peculiarly republican. They reached their climax in the election of William McKimley when Mark Hanna told the corporate and other interests that if they furnished the money, he would furnish the kind of candidate they wanted.

Since that day, the custom has been tolerated until it has become a national scandal and until the candidates who cannot raise enormous funds, however worthy they may be, have no chance of success against those who put out millions for the purpose of winning support at the primaries or in the convention.

It is not at all strange that already the charge is made that the presidency is liable to go to the highest bidder unless the boodle candidates are sent to the rear. They should all be defeated.

HIGH SCHOOL FOLLIES

Lowell, June 1, 1920.
Dear Sir: As a parent, who has children at the high school, I want to object to the habit now common among high school girls of using face powders and carrying vanity bags. I believe the girls, who are paying so much attention to their looks, are not thinking very much of their books. I think this practice should be stopped.

Very truly yours,
PARENT.

From various sources comes a note of criticism which we regret to learn is not without cause. It refers to the growing practice of high school girls in using paints and facial powders, even including rouge. It is most regrettable that young girls in the very bloom of youth, should damage their complexions by resorting to the methods of the vain, old maid, who wants to keep up an appearance of youth, when, under the effect of years, the color has left her cheeks and wrinkles have begun to appear. The moral aspect of the custom is even worse than the possible injury to the skin and the complexion. This silly practice should be abandoned. Young girls should remember that "Beauty unadorned is then adorned the most."

To get red and gold to paint the lips.
To throw a perfume on the violet—
"Is wasteful and ridiculous excess!"

The "vanity bag" should be banished from the class room and the girls should go to school with their hair dressed for the day.

It is stated that this habit of powdering and primping has grown out of the recess dances and other social events in connection with the school. It is right, of course, that the high school pupils should have some enjoyment of this kind, but when it is carried to an extent that interferes with the real work of the school, it should be eliminated.

HELP THE FARMERS

From the farmers comes a complaint that the high wages demanded by labor and the shortage of skilled farm hands at any price, is becoming a most serious handicap to the production of normal crops.

In the suburban towns many fields of onions and other crops are suffering from lack of attention because the farmers cannot pay men five dollars a day for eight hours. If they can get school boys after hours to do the weeding and light hoeing they will be satisfied for the present.

The shortage of labor on the farms is really much worse than is generally supposed. Many crops have been put in with the plow which is unsuited to the work, but lack of the men to handle the other machinery is the cause. The results will not be so good as where the planting was done in the approved scientific way.

It is useless to lecture the farmers this season upon scientific methods as they have not the men necessary to apply those methods. The rate of wages in the cities is continually advancing and still the people complain of the high cost of living. The very high prices have not yet reached the farmers, so far as their products are concerned, but in view of present conditions, they will be obliged to charge more for farm produce next fall.

It is difficult to keep men on the farms who insist on four or five dollars a day and time and a half for overtime, so long as they can get what they want in the city.

It is time the people of the cities showed some interest in the farmers and tried to help them over their difficulties. Circumstances are against them this year and as the farmers are the great mainstay of the nation so far as the production of food is concerned the cities should co-operate with them. It is plain that a failure of the crops or even a short crop will mean higher prices for farm produce next fall and winter.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

By unanimous vote, the United States supreme court has set at rest the controversy which has raged for some time over the question whether the legislature of a state having the referendum provision in its constitution can ratify an amendment to the federal constitution, without submitting it to the people. The full court decides affirmatively and that settles it.

It appears, therefore, that so far as the legislatures of these referendum states acted for or against the 18th or the proposed 19th amendment, their action is legal and effective.

By this decision, the woman suffragists rejoice and the "wets" find that one of the reasons on which they based the hope that the 18th amendment would be overturned, has vanished.

Two other important points await decision in connection with the 18th amendment. They are the validity of the amendment itself, which is assailed on the ground of state rights and, if the amendment is sustained, the validity of the Volstead act. The states are not of one mind on what is intoxicating and what is not. Furthermore, it is necessary to determine how the concurrent power provided for in the amendment shall be exercised. Perhaps one or other of these questions may be decided at the next session of the supreme court.

At the present time many of the states seem to believe that it is within their province to decide what is intoxicating and what is not. Some states would fix a standard of 2.75 per cent for wine or beer and others less, even as low as half of one per cent. It is absolutely necessary that the court should pass on this point as soon as possible so as to secure uniform action in the enforcement of the law. At present there is utter confusion on this point, although the enforcing officials claim that the alcoholic content, fixed in the Volstead act, must rule in all the states, so far as beverages are concerned.

Desert Island Men

Behold a Fable. Two men, one a Capitalist and the other a Laborer, were once shipwrecked on a desert island. It was not entirely destitute of food, but the little there was could be obtained only by hard work. Neither of these men had any tools or money. They were alike in their needs, which were the same in the matter of food and shelter. The Capitalist was a college graduate and he had employed in his coal mine hundreds of men just like the Laborer. The Laborer was an average working-man, one of the mine's hundreds. For years he had looked upon the Capitalist as an enemy and had at times hated him good and hard. On the other hand the Capitalist had regarded the Laborer as so much muscle to dig coal for the Company at so much an hour. But now thrown together on this little island these two men had of necessity to become more or less acquainted. As time went on the Capitalist was surprised to find that the Laborer was not so ignorant or stubborn as he had taken for granted he was. There were many things the Laborer knew about the use of his body which the Capitalist did not know, and he was willing to do his part of the labor that each required to obtain food and shelter. On the other hand the Laborer found out that the Capitalist was not a bad sort. He had ability of his own kind and knew some things about agriculture and building that the Laborer did not know. One day one of these men saved the other man's life during a great storm which threatened to destroy their rude house. The acquaintance grew from mere knowing to real brotherhood. They found out that they were men first and Capitalist and Laborer afterward. This fable teaches that at least some of the misunderstandings and hatreds that men have for one another arise from ignorance of one another. Also that fundamentally all men have the same needs and that there is a meeting ground for common sympathy if men will only try to know and understand. Therefore, it would not be a bad plan if men all over the world who hate and misunderstand one another could be shipwrecked two by two on desert islands. But, alas! We very much fear there would be no islands enough.

Stomach on a Strike (Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)

I suppose tuberculosis. Complicated by indigestion. Doubtless make the summer sky seem extra blue.

I suppose an active cancer! I don't make a moral answer "Cheery-o!" to every stranger's "Howdydo?"

I suppose a "locomotor" Doesn't make a modern voter Start the morning with a long and lusty hike.

So perhaps one shouldn't holler And ejaculate his choicer. When his trusty stomach goes upon a strike.

I suppose a martyr, boiling. In an overdose of oiling. May have thought the exercises quite a bore.

And a saint in Rome's arena Nibbled by some old hyena. Did not always cry a vigorous "Encore!"

I suppose that it might fret me If some squalidite should get me And should use my head to decorate a pike.

All these things might be unpleasant. But they don't compare, at present, With the outrage of a stomach on a strike.

Yes, no matter what I offer It's a sinner and a scoffer And it's bent on nothing else but sabotage.

O, it seems an ancient fable That I used to sit at table And could prey on any edible I'd like.

Mili miserere—darn it! Gabriel blow your cursed cornet! Since my trusty tummy's gone upon a strike.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I happened to be in Boston the other evening and inasmuch as I had more than an hour to "kill" before getting a train to Lowell, I sat on one of the benches of the common, watching the various types of people passing through the avenues of the great reservation. After a while my attention was called to two youngsters, not more than nine or ten years old, who were making their way in and out of the row of benches, industriously collecting newspapers that had been left on the seats or ground. They were working as though the fate of a nation depended on their collecting every single paper lying around the common. When they had gathered a handful they would make their way to a little oval where they piled up their collections and went forth in search of more. Finally a bit of a breeze came up and the neatly arranged pile of papers started to scatter. The older of the youngsters noticed it at once and gave immediate orders to his companion to sit on the pile so that the papers wouldn't be blown away. The latter demurred at first, evidently wanting to take a more active part in the industry, but the older boy settled matters abruptly by pushing the younger onto the pile and there he sat. I didn't get a chance to inquire what disposition was to be made of the papers, but I assume that either the boys were being employed by the city or else were collecting the papers with a view to selling them to some junk collector. If the latter were the case, then they were performing the doubly commendable function of keeping the common clean and spending their time with financial profit.

It seems to be a reasonable and proper plan for patrons of the electric cars to have the correct fare ready when they enter or leave the cars. It saves time both for the passengers and the conductor, but above all it tends to preserve the regularity of the time schedules and thus benefit the public. There is hardly a more uncomfortable position than to have to wait in a crowd for a chance to enter an electric car, simply because some passenger neglected to have the correct fare and handed a bill to the conductor. Furthermore, in many instances the people who complain of the car service are those who cause delay by failure to co-operate. Many of those who delay the service by requiring conductors to change bills are the very ones who become disturbed when the cars are a few minutes late.

Perhaps others have noticed that when there is a repair gang on the track in any curved street they post two flags, each about 100 feet apart, some 200 feet ahead of the gang and around a curve so that the motorist of an approaching car will be reminded of the working men and give them timely warning by sounding the car whistle. The motorist in an electric car approaching workmen from around a curve probably could not see them until he would be almost impossible to stop the car before injuring some of the men. At the first flag the motorist is supposed to sound the whistle or the long to warn the workmen and at the second flag the danger zone starts where care must be taken in passing the workmen.

The immortal Bard of Avon speaks of the "harmless necessary rat." Cats may be necessary. They doubtless have their uses as mouse-catchers and as pets, but that they are all harmless is questionable. A few afternoons ago the Man About Town walking along one of the quiet streets in the Highlands saw one of the felines crouching in a lawn with a small bird crushed between its jaws that were dripping with the blood of its victim. Such occurrences are by no means rare as every observer knows. The cat is a predatory animal, and while it may be content at times to feed upon milk, cream and sponge cake provided by indulgent owners, it much prefers to hunt and capture the prey that will serve as food. A poster furnished by the conservation department of the Massachusetts fish and game commission has recently been put up in a number of places in Lowell calling attention to the destruction of bird life that can be charged up to felins. It states that the cats cause the death of more birds than all other causes combined, and it recommends that all owners of cats shall take pains to see that their pets are kept under observation and control from now until the middle of August to reduce the slaughter as much as possible. When one considers the part that the birds play in destroying the numerous insect pests which menace the crops of farm and garden, the advice would seem to be of a sort that should be heeded.

Dr. Return J. Meigs, who spent last winter in Florida, is a great admirer of Palm Beach county. He states that Harry Kelsey, owner of the chain of Waldorf Astors, has organized a company and purchased 160,000 acres of land running from the shore of Lake Worth to Lake Okechobee, a distance of 25 miles. The company is to build a city to be known as Kelsey City. Already the nucleus of the future city is seen in a cluster of some 50 houses, while a planing mill, a brick factory and other machinery for producing building material, have been established. A citrus grove has been planted and other agricultural projects are in progress. On the beach side buildings to cost over two and a half million dollars are under construction and there is great development in every direction. The hotel rates at the time Dr. Meigs returned, some weeks ago, were not much different from those of last year. Asked if prohibition had effected any change in the patronage of the beach, he said "No, if the people who go there want liquor, they usually bring it with them. If not they can go to the Bahamas, a distance of 50 miles by hydroplane which makes regular trips for the accommodation of those who want to quench their thirst in the old fashioned way. The Red Cross women have been put in charge of schools down there and their nurses are doing excellent work for the people, both white and black.

Recently a Boston company started to raise sugar cane in Florida. If this experiment succeeds, and it may, as parts of Florida are quite productive, a valuable addition to the domestic supply of sugar may be effected. The state of Florida is as big as all New England and is dotted all over with lakes.

NO DECISION

Move to Quash Indictment in Wm. M. Wood Case

NEW YORK, June 3.—A motion to quash the federal indictments returned last week against the American Woolen Co. of New York, the American Woolen Co. of Massachusetts and William M. Wood, president of both companies, charging them with profiteering in sales of wool cloth, was argued before Judge Julian W. Mack in United States District court here yesterday. No decision was rendered. Judge Mack directing opposing counsel, Chas. Evans Hughes for the defendants and Herbert C. Smythe, special counsel for the government, to submit briefs not later than next Tuesday.

Mr. Hughes, in arguing for the motion, contended the indictment, which contained 11 counts alleging 11 sales of cloth at "unjust and unreasonable" prices, did not charge any crimes. He maintained that cloth or pieces of cloth alone are not wearing apparel and that sales of cloth do not constitute sales of wearing apparel under the Lever act, which the indictment charges was violated.

Mr. Hughes maintained that wearing apparel and foodstuffs differ in that food is usable without other preparation than that of culture, while cloth does not become clothing until fashioned into garments.

Mr. Smythe, in his opposing arguments, declared that cloth, made for wearing apparel, was used for no other purpose and would not be used for any other. He contended that the sale of cloth which was intended to be fashioned into clothing comes within the provisions of the act.

LOWELL BOY SCOUTS TO OPEN CAMP

Lowell council of the Boy Scouts is preparing to open its camp at Keyes pond in August with more features for the entertainment and recreation of the boys than in previous years. A larger registration than usual is expected.

The camp is to be in charge of Scout Executive, Read L. Ripley who will have the help of competent assistants and tent leaders. The boys are to live in army tents and it is promised that an abundance of wholesome, well-cooked food will be served them. The day at the camp will start with the sounding of reveille which will be followed by morning ablutions and stretcher exercises. After breakfast there will be a brief talk by the camp director and announcements of interest to the boys will be made. The morning will be largely devoted to practice and demonstration of scout-rifle, passing of tests and woodcraft. In the afternoon there will be games, contests and hikes. After supper there will be a campfire with singing and story-telling.

There will be a chance for swimming twice a day—for half an hour before dinner and for 10 minutes later in the afternoon. A lifeguard and crew will be stationed off shore to guard against accidents.

THE ADRIATIC QUESTION

Premier Nitti of Italy Makes 'New Compromise Proposals to Jugo-Slavia'

PARIS, June 3.—Premier Nitti of Italy has made to Jugo-Slavia new compromise proposals intended to solve the vexed Adriatic question, says a Laibach despatch to the Mail.

President Wilson's stipulations relative to the eastern boundary of Julian Venetia has been followed, with a few slight modifications, which are for the purpose of assuring the defense of the city of Trieste, it is said. Abruzzo, just west of Fiume, would be under Italian sovereignty. The harbor, however, would be placed under the administration of the League of Nations and the suburb of Sussak would be given to the Jugo-Slavs. With the exception of Lussin and Operza, situated in the Gulf of Quarnero, southwest of Fiume, all the islands along the coast would go to Jugo-Slavia, which country would also receive all of Dalmatia except the port of Zara, for which an autonomous government is planned.

THE DAYS OF REAL SPORT

When You Went Fishing
With Dad and Got the
First Nibble

Figure it any way you like; take any boy you choose and still you will find that of all the ideas that originate in his head there are at least two in the way of desires or longings that are always sure to tug at the lad's heart-strings some day. They are as surely a part of boyhood, real, red-blooded boyhood, as the scratch is a quality of woolen underwear; as inevitable as the asafetida bag during an epidemic of diphtheria.

Every dog has his day—boys are not excluded. The time, came, at last, when the little fisherman was repaid in full, and with interest, too, for the fine disregard that had been paid his prowess as a provider of the briny diet.

This happened just about the time all the trees had managed to get into their new green clothes—it was just such a day as you would imagine it would require to make Mr. Lowell bubble over, as he did when he wrote, "What is so rare as a day in June?" Just after a hearty dinner—one that was complete and managed without three kinds of spoons and various species of knives and forks—dad came out on the porch making ready to kindle his after-dinner smoke. While he slowly loaded up his pipe the combination of everything—the green things, the warm, bright sunshine darkened now, just a trifle, by a fleecy cloud—nor should we forget the rich refreshing breeze—seemed to steal over him like a spell of sickness; yes, he felt himself slipping.

"Son, if you will dig some worms, we will go fishing this afternoon; the day looks right, the wind is in the south, so I think everything is just right for bluffs."

Did you have to have a diagram to know what that meant? Or did you have to consult with the members of your portfolio of advisers to know where the best quality worms could be found?

Well, hardly. You knew where to dig. Didn't you the summer before and the spot when you needed a bottle of oil, which you intended to apply to your stiff backbones in order that you could become a back bender or a front bender, just like the squirming contortionist you had seen when ma had taken you to your first circus?

Do not hedge, you knew where the worms were, all right—you got back with a plentiful supply long before dad had finished his smoke. And, then the rum came. You were anxious to get started, couldn't see any reason for waiting and if there ever was a time when the sun stopped in the middle of the day, this was it.

Something had to be done—the day must be saved. In desperation you took your can of worms and discovered that instead of the robust, fat plump, healthy fellows, your supply consisted of a long, lean, lank, poorly-fed, slimy mess.

"Oh, pop! Look! the worms are starving," you exclaimed, excitedly. This brought him back to his erstwhile self—to action. He emptied his pipe, got up from his comfortable chair, stretched, he walked around the house, took the fishpoles from their pegs, examined each critically, selected a very light one and with his huge Jack-knife trimmed it to a size to fit you, procured his tackle-box from the woodshed and then, though he said nothing, you knew you had saved the day. It's certain pop found you an excellent pacemaker on the walk to the lake.

At the landing, of course you expressed your desires as regards the boat, but for some reason or other the trim-looking, double-pointed craft which appealed to you, undoubtedly on account of its speed, lines, did not strike your father's fancy. On the other hand, it was with no little disappointment that you finally permitted him to select the large, heavy-looking, flat-bottomed affair which seemed roomy enough for several people, even with the two piles of anchor rope which were in evidence in either end.

This question settled—you were up with careful tutoring, allowed to rig up your pole with a braided fish line; you were given one of those long, slender blue hooks that dad said was best for bluegills; also a cork, of which there were several in the tackle box, and lastly, you were given an eyed sinker and, for the first time, you wrestled with the problem of properly threading it on your line. Then, with everything all set, of course, you wanted to push off the boat—here again you guessed wrong, as your pop would not have it so.

On the contrary, you were told where to sit and when properly seated, after due cautioning in reference to fishing etiquette, such as sitting in the middle of the boat, keeping your hands out of the water, a very strict warning against leaning over to see the bottom, and above all to keep perfectly quiet, daddy himself gave the boat a shove, took up the oars and you were off.

After rowing some distance, you arrived at a spot which seemed to be a favorite with your pop. He had it marked so he easily located it by lining the boat up with a certain red barn on one side of the lake and a dead tree on the other. Cautiously an anchor was dropped, but it was found to be a little too deep. The boat was pushed in a little closer to shore and when the right depth was found, both anchors were let down.

Quickly you baited your hook with one of the worms you were certain had been starving—you learned that these squirmers could be long, lean and lank or fat, plump and well-rounded.

Then you were told to adjust your cork to the right depth and all was ready for the first bluegill. No, one thing more remained. Your schooling in fishing had taught that you should spit on your hook, so, this done, all was ready; you threw out, anxious to see who could catch the first.

Soon you felt a nibble, violently you

A Word of Help to Women
of Middle Age From
Mrs. Raney.

Morse, Okla.—"When I was 45 years old Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carried me through the critical period of the Change of Life in safety. I am over 60 and have raised a family of eight children and am in fine health. My daughter and daughter-in-law recommend your Vegetable Compound and I still take it occasionally myself. You are at liberty to use my name if you wish."—Mrs. ALICE RANEY, Morse, Oklahoma.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. This good old-fashioned root and herb remedy may be relied upon to overcome the distressing symptoms which accompany it and women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Jerked—only to be cautioned regarding the necessity of remaining quiet and the fallacy of jerking too quickly. "Wait until it pulls the cork clear under," were you father's instructions.

Soon you found it the hardest thing in the world to watch your cork incessantly. Gradually it began to dawn on you that possibly, after all, fishing from a boat was not the same keen can be yours. Its wonderfully pure, soft, pearly white appearance, free from all blemishes, will be comparable to the perfect beauty of your skin and complexion if you will use

sport as that which you found for yourself—

"Watch your bobber," calmly instructed your father.

And, sure enough, it was gone. You pulled, you had something. Swish! you pulled harder and harder, you gained. Swish! again, the line fairly cut the water.

But, by now, you had him to the surface; excitedly you clutched your line and pulled the fish into the boat—a bluegill—one of those wide ones, a little pink on the belly and a blackish blue on the back. Wasn't he a dandy? Weren't you tickled? He was the first to go on the stringer—and you had caught him, too.

And, thus catching a few here, moving to another place and catching a few more, you spent what, after the first fish, was the greatest afternoon you had ever had.

And, the fish you caught—wasn't the string a long one—almost all your pop could do to lift it into the boat.

The anchors up, the lines carefully wound around the poles and the poles snugly tucked under the seats, the fish in the boat, you were surprised to see your pop take from the tackle box, a long, heavy, trolling line, neatly wound on a stick, just as you had always wound your kite string.

"Now we'll try for a bass, while going back," was the matter-of-fact manner in which he enlightened you.

In open-eyed wonder you watched him take a large open contraption, to which was attached a bunch of hooks cunningly concealed among a bunch of buck-tail hair; this was securely fastened to the end of the line, and after trying it to see that the spoon revolved properly it was thrown out and, you were instructed how to pay it.

Tightly you held the line which trembled jerkily as the large spoon twirled in the water. The boat neared, and passed, a little point of land—a point that jutted out into the water, just like the teacher had explained in a "topography" lesson—a piece of land must extend into the water in order to form a—a—what was that long word? It began with p—p—e—n, ugh!

"Oh, pop, I've caught the peninsula!"—It was jerked out of you.

Zipp! you held on for dear life; the line went taut with a jerk that fairly made your teeth click. Then, out of the water leaped a big, black fellow. You could plainly hear the big spoon jingle and rattle. Down he went with a big splash.

Zing! how that line did sing when he ran to the side. But here one of dad's big, long arms reached out ahead of you and took the line from your trembling fingers. Once again the monster, for monster it was to your eye, shot out of the water. Viciously he rattled the big spoon—you could see it all plainly now, first because he was nearer, second because the responsibility had been taken away from you. There he was, a shiny, quivering mass, exerting every possible effort known to his cunning to liberate himself from those hooks. Ah! he was a beauty! he described that arc in the air.

Back he went to the bottom—there he sulked, while pop slowly pulled and pulled.

Swish! he tried to run again—but could go only a short distance. His moves, however, were yet as quick as a flash. Dad continued to pull the line in, hand over hand. Up he came, closer and closer—

He tried to go under the boat, but your father was too quick—into the boat he came instead. Then, that silvery, shining mass of aquatic disturbance was yours—yours to show, yours to tell about, yours never to be forgotten—your first "lunker." Gee—but he was a peach-oreno.

Never a corn
on millions of feet nowadays

Do you know that millions of people who use Blue-jay keep entirely free from corns?

If a corn appears it is ended by a touch. A Blue-jay plaster or a drop of liquid Blue-jay is applied.

The corn pain stops. Soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The method is scientific. It is gentle, easy, sure. Old-time harsh treatments are supplanted by it with everyone who knows it.

It is made by a world-famed laboratory, which every physician respects.

It is now applied to some 20 million corns a year. You can see that corn troubles are fast disappearing.

Then why pare corns and keep them? Why use methods which are out-of-date?

Try this new-day method. See what it does to one corn. You will never forget its quick and gentle action. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

Always fresh and spotless—now
that washing is so easy

"I GUESS I can make that apron do another day."

Hasn't the best housekeeper in the world been guilty of it? That apron or that dress made just one thing more to wash. One thing more to scrub and boil and get hot and tired over. It seemed as if you'd never get through washday.

But now there is a new way without any of the toil and drudgery that used to make washing so terrible. Try it just once—the new Rinso way.

Rinso is the new form of soap in granules—for your family washing. You soak your clothes in the rich suds overnight. Or for three hours in the morning. Then rinse—that's all.

No hard rubbing—no boiling

You do away with rubbing except for very badly soiled places, such as collars, wristbands and hems. And these you need only rub lightly between your hands. Rinso is so pure and so high in cleansing value it simply soaks the dirt out of the clothes. Then, when you rinse, the dirt floats right out.

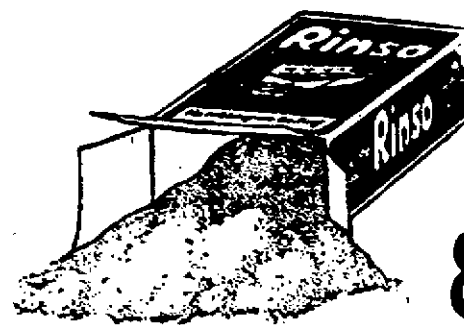

You do away with boiling entirely unless you wish to boil your clothes, occasionally, to sterilize them. You do away with half the wear on your clothes. Because it's the hard rubbing and boiling that wear out the fabrics and fade out the colors.

Use Rinso for your whole washing. Get it from your grocer today. The easy directions are on the package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux).

You can keep plenty of clean things on hand now—it's no work at all!

Fashions Make Beautiful Ankles As Necessary As Beautiful Hands

ELEANOR DALE, C. COLES PHILLIPS' MODEL, IN SILK STOCKING POSE THAT WON HER FAME

NEW YORK, June 2.—Ankles are a matter of decided note—pride or chagrin, as the case may be—in these days of short skirts, slippers and ornate silk hose. Not even hands surpass them in importance.

The chicness of the latest frock, the sheen of satin slippers and silken hose are as beauty wasted "on the desert air," if lady's ankles be scrawny or overplump.

What to do? The first step toward reform is a knowledge of the proper proportions. Eleanor Dale, model for well-known silk-stockings pictures of C. Coles Phillips, has them, so Mr. Phillips thinks. For instance, her ankle measures 7 1/2 inches, and her instep 10 inches.

Get out the tape line, girls, and see how close you come to perfection.

JOHNSON AND HARDING ARRIVE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 3.—Two republican presidential candidates—Senator Johnson of California and Senator Harding of Ohio—arrive in Chicago to lay and their coming marks the beginning of the active days of the pre-convention period.

Five days remain before the party assemblies in the Coliseum to pick its candidate. Every one of the candidates except Herbert Hoover, is expected here at some time during the convention.

The advance guards of the delegates are beginning to arrive and by Sunday they will be coming in a steady stream. The majority, to be sure, are technically unpledged but many have their leaning and very few are claimed by less than three campaign managers.

Some of the chairmen of the incoming delegations are announcing their preferences in prepared statements which breathe the confidence of success but the political managers standing on the side lines and making up their slates have found no reason for changing their opinion that a compromise must be applied to bring forth a candidate who will command a majority.

The added interest of women in politics is responsible for the unusual demand for tickets to the convention, according to National Chairman Hays.

LINEN MODEL FOR HOME DRESSMAKER

BY CORA MOORE

New York's Fashion Authority, NEW YORK, June 2.—The woman who can do at least some part of her own dressmaking is a fortunate person in these days of the high cost of everything, and here is a model that is bound to appeal to her. It is linen in a soft, old blue.

An oddly shaped panel that starts out to be nine inches wide at the top, gradually narrows into a width of four inches where it falls in with the rest of the skirt. At either side are hung saddle pockets, roomy things that are also highly decorative.

The surprise blouse has a long collar and shaped cuffs which, like the pockets, are embroidered with an effective vine pattern in deep pink linen floss.

With this Miss Eva Le Gallienne, of "Not So Long Ago," wears, off stage, a hat made of the linen banded with a narrow strip of patent leather. This is one of Miss Le Gallienne's personal tricks.

ARGENTINA FACES COMPLEX PROBLEMS

BUENOS AIRES, June 1.—Argentina has been facing one of the most complex problems of economic logic—how to deal with the enhanced value of its products and, at the same time, meet the advance in costs to domestic customers. President Irigoyen said today in his message to congress, in which he asked for legislation imposing an additional export duty on wheat. He declared that public authorities cannot view with indifference the prices to which wheat products indispensable to domestic consumption have risen and stated that in his opinion, the solution would be found in his proposed advance in export duties. This he said would make the high price of wheat to pay its "just contribution. In order to diminish the price of its domestic manufacture."

Official figures show that Argentina's supply of wheat available for export on May 1, amounted to 27,135,000 bushels. Exports of wheat and flour since that time, are estimated to have been 1,468,000 tons daily.

BOYLE ANXIOUS TO BOX JOHNNY DUNDEE

While the hot weather has brought a lull in local boxing, several of the local ring men are active in anticipation of signing up for open air bouts. Phineas Boyle is doing considerable training and expects to sign up in a few days and expects to sign up today. Boyle is also anxious to meet Johnny Dundee, Frankie Brito, Ralph Brady, South Boston Johnny Downes, or any other lightweight in the country. He saw the Dundee-Lawrence bout at Lawrence recently and afterwards informed his manager that he would like to take on either one of the pair. Negotiations were immediately opened to stage a Boyle-Dundee bout. This would undoubtedly prove a wonderful attraction. Dundee is one of the most satisfactory boxers in the game and is very popular in Lawrence, despite the fact that he has been downed several times. Boyle would draw well in Lawrence, while of course a big crowd would go down from Lowell.

LAWRENCE HIGH WINS

Lowell High Kicked Around O'Sullivan Park Diamond to Tune of 10 to 3

The warm remained all turned around so far as Lowell high was concerned yesterday when the local baseball team fell down like a row of dominoes in a five-inning game. Lawrence, at O'Sullivan park, in a few brief minutes, the 10 to 3 licks they took without much of a protest was more or less just what was coming to 'em. Lawrence was jubilant and with good cause. Their team piled up an early lead and then added to it along about the seventh inning. But the effort unless you want to look at it from the angle of making the other team look particularly bad in the eyes of its followers.

DOWNES-DEFOE BOUT

As conflicting reports had received here on the recent Downes-DeFoee bout at Syracuse, the following from the Syracuse Journal will prove interesting to local fans: Johnny Downes, lightweight won on a foul from Billy DeFoee of Providence in the fifth round of the main bout at the Arena Theatre last night. Downes was disqualified for refusing Jack Lewis after the Providence Referee Jack Lewis had repeatedly fouled the young Boston lad whom many critics predict is the coming lightweight champion of the world.

LOWELL FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION

Director William C. Adams of the Division of Fisheries and Game, has addressed a letter to Simon B. Harris, president of the Lowell Fish and Game association, in which he extends an invitation to the Lowell association members to visit the fish hatchery and game farms. This is the beginning of the production period at the hatcheries and farms and Mr. Adams feels that by the members seeing the work as it is actually being done they will come away with the favorable impression of the efforts being made to increase the amount of stock for distribution.

RESOLUTE AND VANITIE RESUME TRIALS

NEWPORT, R. I., June 3.—There resumed today the trials to either yacht when the Resolute and Vanitie hoisted sail today for the resumption of their six days contest for the honor of being the first to round the Cape Cod cup next month. Early weather conditions for the first of the official trial races of this port were very light although some of the boats along with the Newport water front predicted a good sailing breeze for the afternoon sport.

PARIS RACE CAUSED BY LOSS IN

PARIS, June 3.—The defeat of Tet, a colt, at the Paris race, has caused a loss in the betting on the Derby, because of the loss of the Derby. More than 10,000,000 francs were wagered on the race in Paris alone this year. The money was wagered on Spion Kop.

MATHEWS READY TO MEET K. OF C. NINE

The Mathews will play the strong Gillespie Mfg. Co. working on the Prince of Wales next Saturday afternoon. Manager Kelly is going hard to build up a strong, fighting combination and believes his club now is entitled some consideration from the Knights of Columbus. Prior to the K. of C. Pitts South Ends game on the 5th day, Manager Kelly expressed the desire of his team to meet the winner and as the Knights got the verdict, Manager Kelly may enter into negotiations with the Mathews at any time. The Gillespie team also is strong enough to demand recognition from the city's best.

ANOTHER PRISON GUARD LAID OFF

Crowley Charged With Neglect in Connection With Jail Break at Charlestown

Said to Have Seen Three Fugitives on Roof But Failed to Fire at Them

BOSTON, June 3.—William J. Crowley, a guard at the state prison, was suspended indefinitely today by Warden Elmer E. Shattuck, who charged him with neglect of duty in connection with the escape of three convicts who made their way to freedom through a ventilator shaft a week ago. Crowley, who was on duty in one of the prison wings when the alarm was given, ran out into the yard, and, according to the warden, he saw the three fugitives on the roof of the prison. He did not fire at them, giving as his reason, the warden said, that he did not think his revolver would carry a bullet that far. He is the second guard to be laid off as a result of the escape. Eugene C. Hanifan, the officer in charge of the wing from which the convicts disappeared, having been dismissed on a charge of gross negligence a few hours after the break. Deputy Warden William Hendry returned today from a trip to the Canadian border in search of two of the men, Herman Barney and Harry Manster, who are still at large. He said he found no trace of them. They were serving sentences for murdering Boston police officers. The third man, who escaped, Charles Ward, a negro, is back in his cell, having given himself up last Sunday night.

LOWELL FISHERMEN HAD POOR LUCK

A local butcher, whose name is being withheld by request, received a telephone call from Westford last evening asking him to speed up to Long-Sought-For pond with a few pounds of steak and a couple of chickens. The call came from Hon. John T. Sparks, a former K. of C. secretary in France, who, in company with Frank Monette, superintendent of the Tremont & Suffolk hosiery, is spending a few days in a camp on the shores of the Westford pond.

It seems that Messrs. Sparks and Monette left this city yesterday morning in an automobile fully equipped with fishing tackle of all description as well as the "fixins" for a good dinner, the picnic de resistance to be fish caught in the waters of Long-Sought-For pond. Mr. Sparks, it is understood, was a little skeptical about going to the Westford pond without proper food, but Mr. Monette insisted that he was a very good fisherman and with the rod and line he could manage to land enough of the funny tribe to prepare a good meal and accordingly he invited a half-dozen Lowell friends to pay them a visit at the camp Wednesday evening.

Luck was against Frank, however, for according to all reports, he failed to land more than a small yellow perch and two hornpouts.

Shortly before 6 o'clock a big automobile showed up at the cottage occupied by the fishermen and six stalwart men alighted as bears, alighted from the car and asked if supper was ready. It was then that the erstwhile overseas secretary took it upon himself to telephone to Lowell for steak and chicken.

As a climax to the affair the Lowell butcher was unable to fill the order and as a result the hosts had recourse to the nearest farm house and instead of a good fish dinner the guests were served fried eggs and boiled potatoes. Nevertheless the meal was enjoyed and shortly after 8 o'clock the visitors went out in a boat and an hour later returned with enough fish to supply an orphanage. Frank says this was his first attempt in Long-Sought-For and he allows that after he studies the pond a bit and finds out where the eel grass and other food is most abundant he will stock all the fish stores in Lowell.

RINGLING BROS' CIRCUS COMING

For the kiddies the three best days in the year are Christmas, Fourth of July and circus day. This latter holiday is already in sight this year for today the first advance agents of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined circus are in town. The posters and advertising matter all inform the waiting vicinity that the circus comes to town on Friday, June 15. From now until the morning the five circus trains pull into town carrying the wonder show of the universe, advance agents will visit the city until the glad tidings are spread far and wide for a radius of over thirty miles. This year's program is said to surpass all others. In addition to retaining the leading celebrities of the circus arena which introduced the circus consolidation last year, an amazing array of European novelties have been provided together with other original features.

FORCE HOARDERS TO UNLOAD IN FRANCE

PARIS, June 3.—Newspapers of this city have begun a campaign intended to compel holders of stocks of food and other necessities to unload, and it is said that results have already been obtained. A radical drop in prices is not expected by students of the situation, but opinion is general that retail prices must become easier in the face of the decrease in the cost of raw materials. Lower prices for food are reported generally from central Europe, from Switzerland to the near east. It is said that hoarders are showing their concern over the movement, and are flooding the markets in some cities.

STOLEN FROM HIS CRIB

Mystery Surrounds Kidnaping of 13-year-old Boy at Norristown, Pa.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., June 3.—The mystery surrounding the kidnaping of 13-year-old Blakely Coughlin, who was stolen from his crib yesterday morning, was still unsolved today. Hundreds of persons, including home defense police, members of the state police, department of justice agents and private detectives unsuccessfully searched the surrounding country and the foreign settlements throughout the night.

Apparently the kidnappers were well acquainted with the Coughlin house. They used a ladder to reach the nursery window. A reward of $1500 has been offered by the county commissioner for the arrest and conviction of the kidnappers and it was said today that friends of the Coughlin family would offer a reward for the child's recovery. George M. Coughlin, the baby's father, is president of a Philadelphia lithographing concern and is a former Princeton athlete.

FOR THAT RAINY DAY

BIG REDUCTION IN PRICE OF SHOES

HAVERHILL, June 3.—Owing to an unprecedented glut in the shoe market here created by the return of approximately $2,000,000 worth of unsold shoes this season, the wholesale price of shoes has dropped to a new low mark and the retail price is expected to follow.

Spring styles that manufacturers asked $4 a pair for at Easter time and which were expected to retail for from $13 to $14 and over, are now selling for $2 a pair and less wholesale.

Refusal of the public to buy at the prevailing high prices is attributed to be the principal reason for the slump in the shoe market. Contributing causes are the congressional investigation of the high price of shoes and the pressure brought to bear by the government last Saturday, making retrenchment compulsory.

This is the first slump since the boom in shoes caused by the war early in 1915. It is also the greatest experienced by the present generation of shoe manufacturers. Ordinarily the entire return on all four seasons would not exceed the present return for the spring season alone. The unusual condition is partially attributed to the unusual spring conditions of cold and rain, which tended to create a demand for rubbers rather than boots and shoes. This undoubtedly helped to swell the grand total, in the opinion of local manufacturers, but the main reason is the drop in sales.

ARRIVED SAFELY

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy O'Reilly received word last evening that their daughters, Blanche and Peggy arrived safely in the west. The girls have gone to the home of their aunt, Mrs. Nellie A. Harton, in Oudor Rapids, Iowa, and will return home about October.

SUMMER PROGRAM OF THE BOYS' CLUB

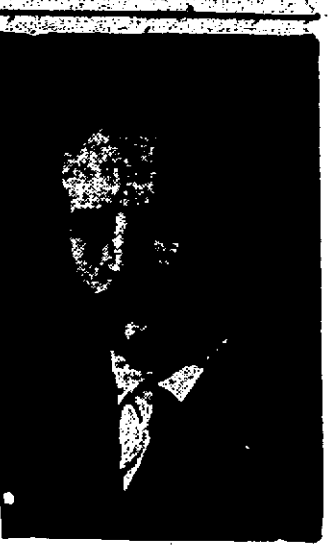

In regard to the summer program of the Lowell Boys' club Major Walter Jeyes, who is in charge, finds it a difficult problem to keep the youngsters interested during the warm weather when they like to spend their time out-of-doors. At the convention in New Haven which was held a few days ago the directors of boys' clubs throughout the country discussed plans and theories whereby the interest of the boys might be maintained and centered in their clubs, thus preventing the general tendency during the vacation period of losing enthusiasm in the aid furnished by the instructors at the clubs. Major Jeyes reports that the only solution of the problem was to form groups of the boys and to appoint a leader for each group to lead them on hikes or visits to the swimming holes or on picnics, special baseball games, etc. One of the questions brought up for consideration at the meeting was the advisability of closing the clubs during the vacation period, but that was objected to because the directors of the boys' clubs are always ready when on duty, to lend a helping hand to the youngsters under their care and in many cases have rendered invaluable aid to boys who have visited the clubs during the summer time. If the clubs were closed there would be no haven for those unfortunate youngsters who always received direction and advice when they were open.

A solution which would bring good results, according to Major Jeyes, is the providing of a playground in connection with the boys' club which would include a swimming pool with lockers and dressing rooms. During this summer, however, the boys who have been connected with the club will have the chance to utilize the privileges of the pool along the boulevard. "Because of outside attractions it is difficult to keep in contact with the boys during the summer time," said Major Jeyes.

In speaking of his investigation of the New Haven schools the Major stated that he was surprised at the dinginess and poor light in the class rooms there. In comparison with the schools of that city, Lowell stands far ahead. In entering one building the Major said that the first impression he gained was of the darkness of the rooms and the dingy appearance of the hallways. In that school the only well lighted room in the building was the master's office which was as large as any of the classrooms.

AWAY WITHOUT AUTHORITY

Major Perry D. Thompson has been notified by the naval authorities that John J. Hayden of 44 Union street, this city, is absent without authority from duty aboard the U.S.S. Arkansas.

Humphrey O'Sullivan says: Increased volume of business at the Merrimack means still lower prices on Men's, Women's and Boys' Clothes selling

Clothes at Cost

Plus the Expense of Selling

Point the decline of high prices absolutely in the hands of the public. The greater the volume of sales at the Merrimack Clothing Co. the less it costs to sell the goods and lower go the prices.

We had a tremendous response to our campaign in May. The bargains we passed out are still fresh in the memory of thousands of men, women and boys who took advantage of the savings. On account of this increased volume of business causing a reduction in our selling expense we are able to offer you still greater reductions beginning this month. What is more, in order to help these low prices for the entire month it will be necessary to increase our sales about 50%. 25 Firemen Overcome, Two Cut By Glass and Others Narrowly Escaped in Fire at Boston

FIREMEN FLEE AS FLOORS FALL

Boston Waterfront Masked
With Smoke From Fire in Wool Waste Building

Hot Air Explosions Spread
Flames and Hampered Fire Fighters

BOSTON, June 3.—The waterfront along Atlantic avenue in the vicinity of the South station was masked with smoke for several hours today from a fire in a five-story building running through from Atlantic avenue to Purchase street, and occupied mainly by Posa & Co., Inc., dealers in wool waste.

With the exception of an office on the street floor occupied by Joseph E. Greene, dealer in electrical supplies, the building was filled with bales of wool, which gave off such dense smoke as to make it impossible for the firemen to enter the structure.

Hot air explosions spread the flames through the building rapidly. Twenty-five firemen were temporarily overcome by smoke and two were cut by falling glass, but none required hospital treatment.

The flames were fought from adjoining roofs, fire escapes and with water-towers. Heavy fire walls prevented the blaze from spreading into other buildings.

The firemen expressed the opinion that the fire was due to spontaneous combustion. Early estimates placed the loss at $200,000.

Several floors fell.

During the fire which burned until nearly noon, several of the floors fell. Two fire chiefs and 13 men who were on the second floor when the floor above collapsed, escaped injury by rushing to the windows as the debris crashed down behind them.

The building was divided into two sections, with fire walls and fire doors between but in an examination of the premises after the flames had been extinguished, firemen said they found a door on the third floor open, permitting the fire to spread to both parts of the building. The state police began an investigation.

SUMMER IS HERE
Can't Call This Real News—
Just Hot Air

Summer is here, with all its New England humidity, straw hats, lightweight clothing, crowds seeking cool watering places, bugs fluttering around sputtering street lights, and mosquitoes.

Poets used to rave and rant about the New England spring, but that was in other years when this section of the country really had a spring worthy of the name and boast, but now the cycle of seasons seem to have missed a cog or beat, and summer crawls right up into the lap of winter, with no glorious go-between masquerading under the guise of spring.

But what a lot of sham there is to the welcome folks here extend to summer. In one breath they acclaim.

The question that is agitating republican leaders fully as much as any other, as the date for the Chicago convention draws near, is whether or not Senator Hiram Johnson will adopt a rule or rule policy when he arrives on the scene of activities. Mr. Johnson is going to the convention first and foremost of course to do what he can to advance his own interests as a candidate for the nomination for the presidency. Also he announces that he proposes to fight to the last ditch for the inclusion in the party platform of a plank condemning the peace treaty, with or without reservations, root and branch. Congress to Adjourn Saturday— Wilson Not to Call Extra Session

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Congress will end its present session Saturday under a resolution of adjournment adopted today by the senate after assurances had been received from the White House that President Wilson did not intend to call a special session during the summer unless a grave emergency arose. The vote on the resolution was 44 to 24. It came after two attempts to amend the measure so as to provide for a recess in the one case to July 13 and in the other to Aug. 2 had failed.

WOULD EXTEND EXPENSE PROBE

Senate Asked to Extend Inquiry to Presidential and Senatorial Campaign

Committee Reverts to Financing of Maj. Gen. Wood's Campaign

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The senate was asked today by Senator Pomerene, democrat, Ohio, to authorize the committee investigating pre-convention political financing, to extend its inquiry to the presidential and senatorial campaign which will end with the elections in November.

The investigation was interrupted today, while members of the committee participated in the debate on the senate floor on the resolution providing for adjournment of congress Saturday. Before the interruption, the committee reverted to the financing of Major General Wood's campaign, calling W. B. Burtt, assistant to Col. William Cooper Proctor of Cincinnati, national chairman of the Wood committee, and C. H. Duell of New York who said he was associated with the Wood campaign until John T. King quit as national manager last January.

In business life, Mr. Burtt said, he was "assistant and confidential man" for Ambrose Monell, of New York, who it has been testified, was a heavy contributor to the Wood campaign fund. Mr. Burtt said he had brought pa-

LOWELL'S SHARE OF STATE TAX

Amount This Year is Largest in History of the City

Heavy Tax Due to Increase in Cost of Labor and Commodities

Lowell's share of the state tax this year will be $295,450, it was announced today, the largest amount the city has ever been called upon to contribute in one year. Last year the city's share of the state tax was $234,520 and Chairman Albert J. Blazon of the local board of assessors says that the increase this year will mean 60 cents additional on the 1920 tax rate. The increase is slightly more than 27 per cent.

The ways and means committee of the house reported the state tax bill of $14,000,000 yesterday which includes the Lowell assessment previously mentioned. The total state tax this year is the largest in the history of the commonwealth and is due to the general

WILL PURCHASE BLOCK

Lowell Salvation Army Will Have New Home in Appleton Street

The Lowell Salvation Army today secured the option for the purchase of the splendid Pinard block, 102, 104, 106, 108 Appleton street for new army headquarters and will complete the transaction as soon as the option papers are signed by Col. Gifford at the Boston headquarters. Adjutant Klepzig of the Lowell branch went to Boston this noon, carrying the papers in the colonel for signature and subsequent sanction.

The property in question, considered ideal for the needs of the Salvation Army in this city, has been sought after for some time and friends of the organization feel that its acquisition means immediate and extensive development of the local work.

It is a fairly new building of three stories, built about three years ago. At present it is occupied by two stores and four apartments in the two upper floors. The purchase price was within the army's reach, with a building fund of approximately $42,000 at hand—the result of past accumulations and the recent campaign which added $12,000 to it.

The army will occupy the entire building and at as early a date as possible. The property has an area of 3736 feet and is a long step forward from the small, dingy and totally inadequate quarters now occupied in Jackson street.

CLOTHES LINE THIEVES BUSY IN HIGHLANDS

A number of instances of clothes line thievery, centering in the Highlands district between Fernald and Stevens streets, have been reported to the local police the past few nights. Last night clothing disappeared from lines in the yard of Ezra Mansur in Fernald street and on other occasions clothes reels in and near Stevens street have been practically stripped by thieves. The police are maintaining a strict watch in the district and believe the same person or persons are responsible for all the thefts reported.

SALARIES AT CITY HALL

Talk of Ordinance to Regulate Clerks' Salaries on Graduating Scale

Before the present year passes into history, there may be incorporated into the laws governing the city of Lowell an ordinance establishing salaries of all clerks employed by the city and regulating them on a graduating scale. At the present time there is more or less confusion, irregularity and general displeasure connected with the manner in which clerks' stipends are determined at city hall. The matter is wholly up to the head of each department and glaring examples of injustice are evident from the perusal of any weekly payroll.

Clerks who have been employed only a few years and in some instances less than a year are getting as much as others who have been in the building for a decade or more. One young woman clerk who has been in the employment of the city for some time

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER ANNOUNCED TODAY

An unusually large sale of business and dwelling house property in one parcel was announced today through the office of Edward F. Slatery, Jr., embracing the transfer of buildings and land at 614-624 Middlesex street and Perry's court from John I. Williamson to Arthur F. Pease and two associates of Holyoke. The property has a new assessed valuation of $34,000 and covers an area of 18,781 square feet of land.

Included in the property are three dwelling blocks with a total of 28 tenements; a brick garage and three stores. The frontage in Middlesex street approximates 125 feet.

The new owners will announce extensive business development and other alterations on the property within a week or two.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN APRIL AND MAY

Building operations involving an estimated expenditure of $253,465 were started in Lowell during the month of May, according to the monthly report of the buildings department now available.

During the month 113 building permits were issued, 56 for new buildings and 57 for alterations. The new building activity involved an estimated expenditure of $227,255 and the alterations $26,210.

In April a total of 140 permits were issued with an estimated expenditure of $288,443, but this sum included the $50,000 estimated for the new Memorial auditorium.

There were 14 one-family dwellings started in May, one two-family dwelling and 26 garages.

WARSHIP COSTS $20,000,000

Tennessee, Largest and Most Formidable Battleship Afloat, Put in Commission

Entire Personnel of 631 Recruited From State of Tennessee—625 Feet Long

NEW YORK, June 3.—The super-dreadnought Tennessee, the largest and most formidable battleship afloat, goes into commission today at the Brooklyn navy yard. Formal ceremonies are set for 2.30 o'clock. Constructed here at a cost of $20,000,000, she represents the last word in battleship architecture. She is 625 feet long, has a beam of 98 feet, and a displacement of 32,500 tons. The Tennessee is the first battleship to recruit her entire personnel from the state from which it takes its name, and represents advantages taken from lessons learned in the battle of Jutland and other important naval battles of the world war.

This last special feature, which distinguishes the Tennessee from all other navies of the United States navy, is the highly organized "fighting brain" enclosed in a steel fort near the top of the forward mast. Here are concentrated devices for observing enemy ships, a device not known in the battle of Jutland. Special devices are installed in this turret which enable the crew to quickly train the 14-inch guns on the enemy before the crew of any other battleship known could even sight the Tennessee. This new device consists of three decks and their fighting complement is 25 men.

By special signaling devices reports from this fighting top can be flashed instantly to all parts of the ship; thus insuring instant correction of range and rapid fire. This "fighting brain" is filled with mechanical devices for range-finding and other delicate instruments never before used on a battleship.

The Tennessee is believed to have been built with more care for the comfort of her crew than any other battleship in the world. Her size makes possible spacious lockers, baths and recreation quarters. She has a handsomely furnished clubroom and library for enlisted men.

She will not actually be put into service until August 1, when she will sail on a practice cruise to Guantanamo, Cuba. Her present crew of Tennesseeans numbers 631. Captain R. H. Leigh is in command.

A large delegation of Tennessee folk is in New York to attend the ceremonies.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

No Elaborate Program Planned Here for Celebration of Independence Day

Lowell's municipal celebration of the Fourth of July this year will not be on an elaborate scale, according to Mayor Perry D. Thompson, if present plans are carried out.

The municipal council included an appropriation of $600 for the observance of the day when it made up the budget last March and this will probably be spent for fireworks and band concerts.

Mayor Thompson said he would bring the matter to the attention of the council at an early meeting for the manner of the observance is for the entire government and no one member to decide.

Last year the observance was confined to fireworks, band concerts, a parade and the ringing of calmes and it is probable that the 1920 observance will be no more elaborate.

There will probably be no parade this year, according to the mayor, unless a strong demand for one makes itself felt. The recent Memorial day parade and the extensive display which will mark the community pageant on the South common next Saturday are considered two factors which will tend to make the members of the city council restrict the Fourth of July observance to the features already outlined.

BIG BRITISH AIRSHIP

R-80 is 535 Feet Long—Designed to Fly Across Atlantic With Ease

BARROW, England, May 29.—Airship R-80, built here for the admiralty, will be launched in two or three weeks. She embodies the latest improvements in aircraft design and it is stated that she could fly across the Atlantic with ease.

The vessel is 535 feet in length and 75 feet wide. Her lifting power is 35 tons. Four engines, each of 240 horse power, will give her a maximum speed of 65 miles an hour. She will carry a crew of 15. Originally intended for war purposes, the gun platforms and fighting paraphernalia have been discarded so that more accommodation may be provided for passengers. She may be used to carry tourists over the battlefields of France, and Flanders.

MARTIAL LAW IN GREECE

As Long as Country is at War With Turkey and Treaty is Unsigned

ATHENS, May 31.—Martial law in this country will continue as long as Greece is at war with Turkey and the peace treaty is unsigned, Premier Venizelos asserted in the chamber of deputies today. Opposition parties, instead of "rejoicing over the triumph of their country in the peace conference," have taken advantage of the abolition of martial law to start a propaganda for the return of King Constantine," he declared.

"The government," M. Venizelos continued, "does not fear that such machinations will succeed, but reopening of questions relative to the former king will certainly lead to bloodshed as the opposition parties are desperate, and the large liberal majority is equally determined not to permit the issue to be raised. The government has extended the olive branch to the opposition, which has replied with sedition. The plea that Constantine never abdicated, but relinquished the throne temporarily to his son, is the meanest chicanery. Constantine showed himself an enemy of the liberal powers whose victory has given them a deciding voice in the affairs of the world, and to reopen the question of restoring him would insult the allies. It was only because of my assurance that the question of Constantine was closed for ever so far as the Greeks are concerned, that the allies overcame the hesitation they felt about extending the frontiers of Greece."

BOY WAS INJURED

Anthony Golden, a boy residing at 45 Suffolk street, claims he was struck by an automobile, while witnesses allege he fell from his bicycle and struck his head on the curb. Be that as it may, however, the accident occurred at 12.30 o'clock near the Thorndike street bridge and when picked up the boy was unconscious. The ambulance removed him to the Lowell Corporation hospital, where he was soon revived and where he told his story of being struck by an automobile. His injuries are not serious.

SEC. DANIELS AT ANNAPOLIS

Says Efficiency of Navy Depends Upon Boldness to Attempt Things Untried

Must Cast Off "Slavery to Tradition"—Presents Diplomas to 289 Graduates

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 3.—Upon the spirit and will of its officers to cast off "slavery to tradition" and venture into the realm of things untried, depends the future strength and efficiency of the American navy, Secretary Daniels told the graduating class of midshipmen at the naval academy here today, in presenting diplomas to its 289 members.

Citing as an object lesson the navy's record of resourcefulness in the world war, as best exemplified in the North sea barrage, the secretary delivered an earnest appeal to the young officers not to let the weight of accepted theories restrain their efforts to keep American sea power at the forefront in strategy and invention.

"To some men, tradition is a taskmaster, a hard rule, a beaten path," the secretary declared. "To others it is a star in the firmament, a light to the pathway, wings on which to mount for clearer vision and wider action, to win the goal, not by precedent or rule, but by an illumination that is spirit and not dead."

"No two wars were ever won by the same tactics and few by the same weapons. The military leader of the future may navigate his ships by radio and the day may even come when all his fighting craft may be 'airy navies, battling in the central blue.'"

Coupling with his admonition against diffidence and skepticism toward the untried a reference to the "doubt and delay among naval statesmen," in accepting the American navy's proposal for the North sea barrage, Secretary Daniels declared that the spirit that gave birth to that "great and original conception" won for the navy the honor of contributing the "outstanding offensive" against the submarine menace.

"Let that be a tradition to incite you to newer heights than have ever been attained," he added.

"The American tradition of boldness and audacity," the secretary continued, "enforced by world war achievement, will save you from the danger of a slavish adherence to tradition or precedent in method while heartening you with the guiding realization that the tradition of daring and audacity is bounded by no limits or possibilities or miracles."

The secretary told the young officers that they were to be congratulated upon the coming into the navy "in a day when it holds—and holds deservedly—a higher place in the confidence of the American people than in any period of its history."

BERLIN, June 3.—The National Tindene says today it learns that Norway refused to accept the mandate over Danzig when it was proffered by the supreme council and the mandate was then accepted by Poland.

PRES. SAN FUEENTES SAYS CHILE'S INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS ARE MOST CORDIAL

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 2.—Chile's international relations are most cordial, President San Fuenfientes declared today in opening parliament. The only exception to this rule, he declared, was the situation between Chile and Peru. In dealing with Peru, he said, Chile was disposed to adhere strictly to the principles which she had followed in the past.

Bad Complexions Peeled Off at Home

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, and only my makeup saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is unnecessary, now that the virtues of ordinary mercerized wax as a beautifier have become known. It has been found that the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discolored skin to flake off in minute, almost imperceptible particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is actually removed—like-wise all fine lines, wrinkles, pimples, blotches, moth patches and other surface defects. A new complexion appears—clear, smooth, youthful, healthy—bued skin such as no rouge, powder or cream can produce. Mercerized wax, to be had at any drug store in convenient size package, is applied like cream and allowed to remain on the face overnight.—Adv.

Wheeler Urges U. S. Government to "Place Itself Underneath Business"

CINCINNATI, June 3.—Speaking before the Cincinnati chamber of commerce, Harry A. Wheeler, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, urged that "the government place itself underneath business in a helpful way, especially in the export field, just as England and other countries have done."

It is this "getting underneath," he said, "that accounted for the success of Great Britain in the world's markets, and until the United States government gives the same consideration and assistance to its businessmen in foreign countries the American exporter will be at a disadvantage," he declared.

Mr. Wheeler insisted, among other things, that American concerns desiring to operate in foreign countries interesting foreign capital in enterprises be given charters from the United States government instead of operating under state charters, which, he said, mean practically nothing to prospective investors abroad.

VITALITAS

GIVES "PEP"

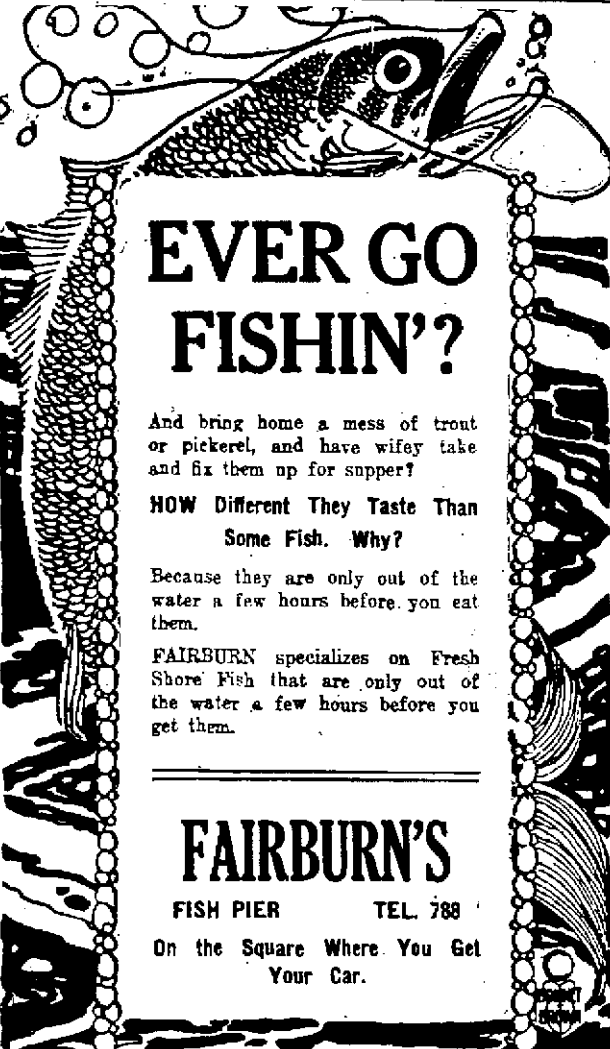

"Pep" is a slang word but it is very expressive and it tells in three letters the results people throughout America are getting from the use of Natural Vitalitas, the greatest medicine of them all. Vitalitas has no dope or harmful drugs added to it, but is rich in free iron and other minerals in solution compounded by nature which are necessary for a healthy, vigorous body. For cleansing the system of poisons and stimulating nerve and vital force Vitalitas is without an equal. Dissipated conditions are eliminated and health and strength result. For indigestion, Rheumatism, Biliousness, Kidney, Liver and Stomach ills it has been found effective where all other remedies fail. It will do you more good than any tonic you have ever taken. PALMER DENIES CHARGE

Replies to Bonniwell's Statement That He Lifted Dry Lid for Primary

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(By Associated Press)—A very cross-table between J. Edgar Hoover, Gen. Palmer and Eugene C. Bonniwell of Philadelphia, bristling with direct charges of the misuse of federal power to let down the liquor bars during the Pennsylvania presidential primaries on the one hand and of attempted "character assassination" on the other, marked the senate investigation yesterday of pre-convention campaign expenditures.

Children We Worry About

Close confinement to school during the past winter, overstudy perhaps, an attack of the grip or tonsillitis, some one of these things is doubtless responsible for the condition of the child who shows a decline in health now.

What are the symptoms? Pallor and languor, a feeble appetite, dark rings under the eyes, bronchial colds. Very often the best efforts of the family physician fail in such cases and the condition of the child causes the most intense anxiety. Cod-liver oil, so often prescribed, generally fails because the weak stomach is unable to digest fat.

Try this treatment. Before breakfast each morning, give the child the juice of half an orange. After the noon meal give one of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Keep this up for a few days then give one of the pills after the evening meal also. Weigh the child before beginning the treatment and again after two weeks. An increase in weight of from two to five pounds will show you that you are on the right track at last. Care is necessary in the diet of the patient and it will be well to send to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the book "What To Eat and How To Eat." Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box.—Adv.

stand to belie his testimony and Mr. Palmer, the first candidate for a presidential nomination to appear at the inquiry, took a seat across the table from the witness, who, it was brought out, was a political enemy of long standing.

Impending Clash Draws Crowd

News of the impending verbal clash spread rapidly and the hearing room soon was crowded. When Mr. Bonniwell concluded Mr. Palmer replied, opening his statement with the charge that Mr. Bonniwell had employed "character assassination" methods against him in Pennsylvania for years and concluding it with the assertion that in Pennsylvania "Judge Bonniwell's word is not evidence of fact."

Echoes of the combat had hardly died away before a new element was injected into the committee's deliberations with the flat refusal of Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, to attend further sessions. In announcing that he had notified the chairman of the full committee and the subcommittee of his decision, the senator said he believed approximate figures on all pre-convention expenditures had been obtained and that further inquiry would result only in the string of "charges, counter-charges, intimations and insinuations." He added that no federal law had been broken as there was no federal presidential primary law to break.

Ask About Plumb Plan League

Before Mr. Palmer appeared in the committee room the committee had inquired into the activities of the Plumb Plan League, made further efforts to run down a presidential campaign for W. G. McAdoo and had heard two officials of oil companies who had been mentioned in previous testimony as possible large contributors to political campaigns.

Edward Keating, manager of the Plumb Plan League, declared the league had taken no part in any pre-convention political activity, had not contributed any money and did not plan to participate in the convention struggles. He added, however, that it did seek to defeat members of congress who voted for the transportation act. Mrs. Antoinette Funk of Illinois, active in Liberty loan drives and later for the democratic national committee, declared positively that no campaign for obtaining the democratic presidential nomination for McAdoo, direct or indirect, existed, much to her "regret."

H. F. Sinclair, New York, of the oil company bearing his name, declared he had made no campaign contributions or been otherwise active politically, and Norman Bridges, connected with the Doherty oil interests, testified that he had contributed $1000 to Gen. Wood's candidacy, but otherwise knew nothing of any campaign.

Raised $115,000 For Johnson

Mr. Rosseter said approximately $115,000 was raised for Johnson in

Sure Relief

California. A budget had been made up, he testified, in the expectation "that $2,000 would be spent in each of ten primary states" and altogether that $25,000 would be needed.

"As time went on, and Mr. Hoover came in," he continued, "we found many people we relied upon were contributors there. I had given $2500 and subsequently raised my contribution to $7500, which was the largest single amount coming to my knowledge."

"Delegates from Southern California got up a little pool of their own. I don't know how much. We asked the southern people to take care of themselves."

Mr. Rosseter was asked if he knew anything of the expenditures made in the campaign for Herbert Hoover in California.

"I am not informed," he responded, "except that we of the Johnston committee were aghast at the expenditures coming under our notice, in the way of newspaper advertising and other things, like the report of workers hired at the polls."

With the completion of Mr. Rosseter's

The first application of Howard's Buttermilk Cream will astonish you. It creates beauty almost like magic, but the most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull and most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

It is absolutely harmless and will neither produce or stimulate the growth of hair. WILL CHANGE THE WORDING OF DEEDS

Chairman William H. Rigby of the board of cemetery commissioners, was instructed at the regular meeting of that body late yesterday afternoon to confer with the city solicitor relative to changing the wording of deeds issued to those who purchase lots in the public cemeteries. At the present time the cemetery department gets $2 each for the care of lots, but owing to the increase in wages more revenue must be had.

It was pointed out that charges for care on lots already sold cannot be raised, but that from now on extra revenue may be derived from new lots.

Other matters which were discussed at the meeting included minor damage in the Edison and Westlawn cemeteries, the excellent appearance of the cemeteries on Memorial day and the purchase of a Ford truck for the superintendent of the Westlawn cemetery.

HOUSING PROBLEMS BEING STUDIED

LONDON, June 2.—Housing problems, made acute all over the world by the war, are being studied by several hundred delegates to the first international housing and town planning congress, which opened its sessions, at Central hall, Westminster, today. Representatives of a score of nations are in attendance.

One of the chief aims of the congress will be the formulation of a scheme of international application by which every family may be provided with proper housing within a period of 20 years.

SELS-FLOTO CIRCUS COMING THURSDAY

Willard D. Coxy, who has been coming to this city in the interest of various amusement enterprises so long that the mind of man runseth not to the contrary, was here today, full of pep, promise and enthusiasm, for the Sels-Flo Circus, which is to make its bow to Lowell next Thursday, June 10.

"There are circuses better known locally than Sels-Flo," said Mr. Coxy, "but this is readily explained by the fact that it is a western organization and has rarely been seen east of Chicago. Last season the show introduced itself to Boston and New England, and its success was so pronounced that a more comprehensive tour, comprising all the eastern and central states has been planned for the present year. The cities to be played, in addition to this one, includes Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Boston and New York. The show opened the season at the mammoth coliseum in Chicago, playing there to enormous business, and attracting phenomenal attention. The consensus of opinion in that city was that a more novel and up-to-date circus performance had never been seen there. It is now exhibiting to big business in Boston."

This is not surprising in view of the unusually noted and high-salaried features offered by the show. The famous Hanneford family, with "Poodles" Hanneford, the irrepressible riding clown, who created a sensation at the New York hippodrome all last winter.

Gas in the Stomach is Dangerous

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble. Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called acid indigestion.

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any drug-gist a few ounces of Bisulphate of Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and blood right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisulphate of Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. Liggett's Riker-James Drug Stores—Adv.

lar, and who are now among the many features with the Sels-Flo circus, are an index to the character of the performance. There are, however, many other feature acts. The Codenas and Flying Nelsons are among the world's greatest aerialists; Beria Beeson and LaBelle Victoria are the champions of all wire dancers; the flying ballet offers 12 comely young women, all of whom go through the most beautiful posturing while suspended in the dome of the big tent by their teeth; the French family LeGros present the most remarkable display of acrobatic contortion ever seen in a circus, and there are many others. Three herds of acting elephants and other trained animals, and a gorgeous spectacle for good measure surely fill out a program that it would be difficult to surpass anywhere on earth. Will there be a parade? You said it and it will surprise you by its magnitude and novelty as well as the number and splendid character of the horses."

Continued

One-half of the 4700 operatives usually employed, reported for work. The workers poured into the main gate of the factory through streets patrolled by national guardsmen mounted and on foot under Adjutant General Charles W. Abbott, Jr. The guardsmen have been on duty since Governor Beekman declared the town in a state of insurrection last Friday because of rioting. Returning employees met with no interference or picketing activities from the strikers, who walked out a month ago because of dissatisfaction with a readjustment of the wage scale. The strikers, however, held their strength, the absentee today being almost double the number of those who participated in the original walkout.

Operators Threatened

When questioned in their homes by General Abbott as to their reasons for returning to work when offered the opportunity under military protection, several women operatives said they feared violence and gave him the names of one or two men who, they said, were active spirits in a group engaged in spreading a propaganda of intimidation. As a result of information thus obtained a conference of military officials was held, after which it was announced that Major Dubois, the judge advocate of the guard, would proceed immediately to have Angelo St. Charles, considered one of the strike leaders, brought to trial on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon now pending against him. A change of venue from Bristol county to Providence county will be asked, it is said. The extent to which the factory force ready for duty fell short of operating requirements was indicated by a statement of company officials. It was said that 500 of the 100 clerks, machinists, carpenters and firemen reported in the "making" department regarded as the hub of operations, were on hand. In the other departments early figures indicated about 50 per cent of the operatives still out.

As the total available did not constitute an efficient working force, company officials held a conference later in the day to consider what the future policy should be.

Continued

"Summer is here!" and in the next, "Isn't it hot?" You cannot satisfy us, Mr. Weather Man, if you take away our springtime, because it was during those days that we generated the "pep" to carry through a broiling summer without willing entirely.

But when all is said and done, Lowell folks today, yesterday, Tuesday, Sunday and Saturday have enjoyed the weather they have longed for in the midst of ice, snow and cold only a few short weeks ago. More than ever before, summer should be appreciated this year, after a winter which took all the prizes for trick snow storms and disagreeable weather.

The high temperatures of the past few days caused by a sun traveling through a cloudless sky have brought foodstuffs out of the ground as if drawn by a magnet. A rainy spell preceded it and continued so long, in fact, that farmers grumbled and regretted grave concern as to the welfare of their crops. Then came the sun and the rising temperature and every budding and blossoming thing seemed to flower and leaf out almost overnight.

Right along this same line of summer complaint, it may be truthfully said that the greatest industry in Lowell for the past fortnight has been hat cleaning. There are now ones walking about, but never so many old ones revamped in an effort to curtail living expenses and, therefore, the furious clean-up.

Any comment upon the shadowy creations of rare heat now being worn is not necessary. Whatever adornment summer requires, the female of the species furnishes. Patching indeed are winter furs and trim suits, but oh, you warm weather raiment!

WOMAN SUFFERED IN SILENCE

Health Poor, Beauty Fast Fading Away—Made Believe She Was Well

A business woman writes: "There must be lots of women who, feel as I did. I suffered in silence many times on account of my pride, but now I know that a good laxative is essential to good health. I neglected my health trying to keep chery and pretending I was all right when I wasn't. I had terrible pains, was 'grouchy' and my headaches almost killed me with pain, and worst of all from my viewpoint I had a sallow, unbecoming complexion which was not helped by face powders. Why didn't I try to cure myself rather than pretend? After taking Dr. True's Elixir, I now know that a laxative was what I needed. Dr. True's Elixir is mild and pleasant to take, and works just right for me. My complexion cleared up—bright and ruddy—blemishes vanished and everyone remarked how much better I looked."—Mrs. E. J. B., New Auburn, Me.

The root of many of the evils of sickness is the bowels, a very vital part of the human body.

A cold, a fever, diseases or the like can be remedied at once, providing the operation of the bowels is normal—the first and most important relief can be had by giving a Laxative, but be sure it is the proper kind.

Most everybody in these days of quick action and strife, forget their health. The laboring people bolt down their meals, often go to bed right after eating, and wake up in the morning restless, force down a breakfast and then are distressed all day.

An Outdoor Worker says: "I couldn't puzzle out what made me feel so bad. My good, home-cooked meals didn't even taste good, and I had headaches and was grouchy. I never thought I was constipated, but now I know, for I took four little doses of your Dr. True's Elixir, and it fixed me up grand. I will never be without it again in case of constipation."—F. B. E., Allston, Mass.

The bowels need attention first and always. Rich foods, improper cooking, irregular and quick eating, lack of exercise can all be offset providing a mild laxative is taken regularly.

A Business Man writes: "The continual rush of office details and the short meal hours I get, together with, I think, restaurant foods, has simply knocked my system all to pieces. I felt lory, and had no appetite until I took Dr. True's Elixir, as a Laxative. It is a great thing. No one should neglect their bowels."—Boston Business Man.

Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, with an established reputation since 1851 (over 68 years) has accomplished the seemingly impossible. It has relieved thousands upon thousands of sufferers from constipation, which causes so many terrible disorders.

Dr. True's Elixir will benefit every one: The laborer who eats heartily and quickly; the office boy and girl who eat "fancies" and irregularly; elderly people who can't digest well and children who suffer from intestinal parasites.

Dr. True's Elixir means a big saving to health and pocketbook. At all drug-gists. Three sizes, 10c, 50c, $1.00. Buy the large size—Adv.

ADD TO SUBTRACT FROM PERSONALITY

Is one service of a set of teeth. It is for you to choose how attractive your teeth shall be. It is also for your benefit to know that every tooth is serving its best to give you the highest function of perfect teeth—thorough mastication. Beautiful teeth are always desirable; sound teeth are a life necessity. To allow the loss of them will be to serve a penalty. One reason the pleasure of my operations doesn't fade—patients enjoy a satisfaction from their teeth that is worth more than the dollars needed to restore them properly. Better teeth is better health.

PROFESSION OF REALTOR ON A LEGAL PLANE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—To place the profession of the realtor on a legal plane, affording the client the same protection that surrounds medicine and the law, is the supreme purpose of a special committee on real estate license, the report of which was submitted today to the convention of the National association of real estate boards in 12th annual session here.

"The year 1919, was one of prosperity for real estate men generally," said Judson Bradway, Detroit, chairman of the committee in submitting the report, "but not until the years to come will the average realtor realize that during the year past a new era for real estate profession began and obtained a tremendous impetus, which must not and will not cease until the name 'realtor' stands with the names 'lawyer' and 'doctor' and will mean to the public that the man entitled to use that name is qualified mentally and by experience, to give proper and honest service to his clients."

To bring that condition about, the committee urged that the convention go on record as favoring the adoption by states of stringent laws governing real estate operations.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Three hundred thousand spurious whiskey prescriptions have been written in Chicago since prohibition went into effect, according to an estimate made today by Captain Hubert Howard, federal prohibition director for Illinois.

Tabulation of 1000 prescriptions for obtaining liquor, picked at random, showed "general debility" standing second high in the list of reasons for its need, according to Captain Howard. "Bronchitis caused issuance of more than one-third of the prescriptions."

MANCHESTER ARTISTS AT OPERA HOUSE

"The Chimes of Normandy," was presented at the Lowell Opera House last evening by the Union Musicale of Manchester, N. H., an organization composed of some of the best French-speaking talent of the Queen city. Unfortunately the audience was not very large, this being due probably to the heat. Nevertheless those present thoroughly enjoyed the play which was ably and artistically presented. The leading roles were sustained by Miss Blanche Blondin and Mr. Thomas J. Bois. Miss Blondin is possessed of a charming soprano voice, while Mr. Bois is a baritone of rare ability. Walter Richard and Mrs. Henri Doucet scored highly in the comic roles, both being exceptionally good singers and clever actors. The chorus work was excellent and reflected credit upon the musical director, Mr. Homer Mansseau. A share of the credit for the artistic success also goes to Mr. Pierre T. Perreault, under whose able direction the play was given.

Others who took part in the play were J. O. Gellinas, Zoel Dufour, Paul Gingras, M. Morin, Miss Corinne Provencier, Miss Yvonne Ballard, Miss Donald B. Goupil, Miss Cora Belliveau and Miss Rose A. Bilty.

—cloudiness

Have you ever noticed the cloudy appearance of Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush while enjoying these rare-flavored drinks?

The reason for this cloudiness is also the reason for the unequalled deliciousness of Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush—for it is caused by the uniform distribution throughout the drinks of thousands of minute particles of the actual fruit oil pressed from freshly-picked oranges and lemons.

The interesting process which has made this possible was perfected five years ago by N. C. Ward, and is exclusive with Orange-Crush Company. It marks one of the greatest steps forward ever taken in the preparation of soft-drinks, for it brings to you, without preservatives, the pure, delightful flavors which have made oranges and lemons the favorite fruits in every home. The cloudiness is your guarantee of genuineness, flavor and quality.

The booklet, "The Story of Ward's Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush," gives full details regarding the making of these drinks. It shows how the delicate flavors are obtained by combining the fruit oils with purest granulated sugar and citric acid—the natural acid of oranges and lemons.

SUIT AGAINST EXPRESS COMPANY

The case of James T. Brown of this city vs. the American Express Co., an action of tort in the sum of $5,000, went to trial at the jury session of the superior court this morning. Justice Feadick presiding. In this case the plaintiff claims that on or about Dec. 18, 1917, while in the employ of the defendant company at the railroad station in this city, he fell and received a fracture of the arm as well as other bodily injuries. He claims his fall was due to the negligence of the servants and agents of the company. The company in its answer claims if any injury was caused it was due in whole or in part to the negligence of the plaintiff.

Political Events

prepared in rough draft by Senator Lodge and associates, and that is now on its way to Chicago, contains only tentative declarations on the subject of the treaty. These are later to be laid before the party chiefs assembled in conference in the convention city and put into final form for consideration by the committee on resolutions.

Attitude to Johnson

That the party leaders will permit any such program of unqualified condemnation as is proposed by Senator Johnson, does not seem to be within the realm of possibilities. Such action would stultify the record of Lodge and other senate leaders of the party who have labored for over a year to secure the ratification of the treaty with reservations. The party leaders realize that outright condemnation of the treaty would not place the party in a favorable attitude before the country. But if they refuse Johnson's nomination that he seeks and reject his treaty plank, they face the possibility of his bolting the convention and its nominees and starting a third party of his own. It is no secret that Chairman Cummings of the democratic national committee, and others of prominence in his party, are hoping this time to just what will happen at Chicago.

Dark Horse Coolidge

The feeling that Governor Coolidge's chances of securing the republican nomination as a dark horse candidate seems to be growing stronger and more widespread as the time for the balloting draws nearer. Strangely enough the belief that Coolidge may prove a man of destiny really fitted to meet the needs of the hour is more prevalent apparently away from home than it is here in Massachusetts, where his name is often mentioned in a complimentary way and the wish that the honor of a nomination might come to the state, but with faint hopes expressed that such outcome is probable. There are indications that while members of the Massachusetts delegation will give their outward support to the governor, they will do so with a mental reservation that they are laboring for a cause that is doomed in advance to defeat. Also there are known to be influential elements in the party here at home that would not be over much pleased to see the governor nominated.

Steam Roller at Work

The steam roller of the republican national committee meantime is being operated with a precision and speed that is reminiscent of old times in preparing the convention rolls. The delegations from the south are as usual furnishing the most fertile seed for its operations. There are 137 seats in the committee which have been arrived at there are indications that the committee has ceased to look upon the Wood candidacy with as much favor as was formerly the case, and that there are elements in the committee which are inclined to consider Lowden or Johnson as being more available than the army man for the nomination.

Relating to Mexico

It seems to have been practically settled that the platform plank dealing with our relations with Mexico will be of an ultra-belligerent nature. It is likely to follow in some measure the lines of the report of the subcommittee of the senate's committee on foreign relations and demand that our southern neighbor clean house at once on pain of having the United States stop in and undertake the job. There will be also the inducement held out for a prompt beginning of the clean-up process that when it is completed this country shall lend its credit to the rehabilitation of Mexico on an extended scale.

Women to the Front

Women will be represented on the floor of the convention both by delegates and alternates. It is also announced that a party that may include several thousand, intends to make its descent upon Chicago with the intention of forcing through the adoption of a suffrage plank that will be fully acceptable to them. Since suffrage has ceased to be a subject of national political interest and disagreement the women are likely to get what they want. About the only practical worth of such a plank is the influence that it might possibly exert upon the republican legislature of Connecticut to ratify the amendment when it meets, provided it has not been previously given the sanction of the required number of states. The women are aware that it will require the strongest kind of persuasion to overcome the determined opposition to their cause by Senator Brandegee and his followers in the legislature.

The Senate Plank

The plank that will deal with the payment of a bonus to the veterans of the world war is also troubling the republican platform makers. They are naturally anxious to furnish the proper bait to capture the soldier vote. They are not sure what the bait should be, however. On the one hand, it is asserted that only about a fifth of the membership of the American Legion is in favor of a bonus as proposed and that the other four-fifths of the former soldiers would turn their backs upon the party. If it should approve the expenditure of several billions of dollars in behalf of the men, a large majority of whom, they assert, do not want exceptional benefits from the public treasury.

The "Stim" Funds

Altogether, according to testimony that has been given before the senate investigating committee, the three leading republican candidates—Wood, Lowden and Hoover—have spent a total of nearly three and a half million dollars in their efforts to capture the presidential nomination. Wood's expenditures reach the imposing total, it is generally believed, of two and a half million dollars. Hoover spent $300,000 in his effort to win in California alone. Lowden claims that all of the $400,000 that has been spent in his behalf has come out of his own pocket. Whether or not it has, his payment for services rendered, or expected to be rendered, has been on a profligate scale. In Pennsylvania his agents admit having forced money on men who were reluctant to take it. In Missouri, where no primaries were held, $25,000 of Lowden money was handed over to insure the good will of the delegates toward the Lowden cause although no efforts were made to have them instructed.

Whence came the money?

Not much information has been allowed to reach the public as to the sources from which the big campaign funds have been gathered, but such as has leaked out has been of a character that has not brightened the outlook for republican success. In November, aside from Col. Proctor, of soap fame, who appeared in the limelight for an hour as a man who was willing to spend half a million for the realization of his "ideal" of seeing Gen. Wood nominated, and who says that he has no hopes of personal gain. It has been revealed that one of the principal gatherers of Wood funds has been Herbert L. Satterlee, son-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan, and close to the big interests, financial and otherwise, which are commonly grouped under the head of "big business." Gov. Lowden's chances have not been helped by the fact that he is commonly referred to as the son-in-law of the Pullman Car company, and is believed to be very acceptable as a candidate to the railroad interests which will be supplants for governmental favors of many kinds during the next few years.

Champ Clark's Move

To put a stop to the auctioning off of presidential nominations to the highest bidder in the future, former Speaker Champ Clark has had introduced into the national house of representatives a bill with teeth in it which will put a crimp in the use of such methods in the future if it is adopted. It is believed that even a republican congress will look with favor upon such legislation viewed from the standpoint of recent events that it is admitted have irreparably injured the party.

Clark as a Candidate

Although the friends of Champ Clark have not made quite so much noise as the adherents of some of the other aspirants for the democratic nomination, there is a strong undercurrent of feeling in his favor. Here in Lowell, which may be taken as furnishing an index to conditions in other parts of New England, the former speaker's name is frequently mentioned both by party leaders and the rank and file as that of a man whose proved abilities and long experience in governmental affairs make him exceptionally available as a candidate who would make a strong appeal to the voters for support. It is recalled that Clark entered the democratic convention of eight years ago with a clear two-thirds of the delegates ready to vote for him for the nomination and that it was only his own vigorous adherence to a course of action that he believed was right that prevented the honor going to him.

Edwards to the Front

An interesting feature of the democratic pre-convention canvass is the prominence that Gov. Edward L. Edwards of New Jersey is assuming as a candidate for the nomination. He has a strong following here in New England as well as in other parts of the country. Several members of the Massachusetts delegation, it is known, are ready to vote for him, but whether they number the necessary two-thirds of the membership that is required under democratic procedure to cast the vote of the state in his favor is unknown. The final action of the delegation will be largely determined by developments at San Francisco.

McDow and Palmer

Former Secretary of the Treasury McDow has the strong support of a large part of the labor element and it is claimed in his behalf that his nomination would line up some millions of voters connected with organized labor solidly behind him. The principal objection to his nomination is that he would represent the "crown prince" idea of establishing a dynasty of succession to the presidency in one family. Judge from the attacks that are being launched against him from republican sources, Atty. Gen. Palmer is the prospective candidate that is most feared by the opposition. He will enter the convention with a goodly number of votes pledged in his favor and with the hearty good will behind him of many of the delegates who are unpledged.

Cox May Win

In all prognostications regarding the outcome of the San Francisco convention, the name of Gov. Cox has a leading place. His abilities as a leader, his sound record as an executive and the fact that he could probably hold his own state in the democratic column are cited as qualifications for his selection as party standard bearer.

AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL MASTERS SUCKED IN PLANS FOR INVADING GERMAN INDUSTRY

BERLIN, June 3.—American iron and steel masters have every reason to congratulate themselves on the success of their plans for invading German industry, says Vorwaerts. The newspaper asserts that recent large purchases of German iron and steel shares, ostensibly for Dutch account, were really for American account, and that at the next board meetings of these German firms, remarkable disclosures will be made.

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor.

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein.

Judging from the success that has attended the methods used in the breaks for liberty by prisoners of Massachusetts penal institutions, the retarding shafts of most of the establishments should be due for a rigid and minute examination.

Mr. Hoover's publicity league has been in charge of Edward Lyne Hunt. That middle name is suggestive of the source from which a good many of the campaign yams of all the candidates in the republican presidential race may have emanated.

The Sun extends its congratulations and best wishes to the ten young women who graduated from the Lowell General hospital training school for nurses yesterday. The career upon which they have started offers more than the usual number of opportunities for helpful service.

It looks as if there isn't going to be much bituminous coal left for our New England manufacturers unless something is done to curtail the supply that is going to Great Britain and other European countries. There are other things besides charity that should begin at home.

The mayor has 28 more days in which to select the members of the Lowell charter commission. During that time he should be able to pick a body of representative men who will completely put aside political considerations and personal prejudices and opinions, and thoroughly and carefully study civic needs from the sole viewpoint of what is best for the city.

The people of the Highlands want the closed Westford street fire station reopened to furnish them with better fire protection. The mayor says that with the station closed they have better protection than was the case when the station was open. Such diverse opinions on the same subject seem to bear a resemblance to an irresistible force meeting an immovable object.

George Holden Tinkham, congressman from Massachusetts, blames President Wilson for the sugar shortage. If Mr. Tinkham could get a glimpse of the books showing dividend payments of the big sugar refining companies—that are owned mainly by republicans—he might revise his opinions. It isn't very probable that he would though, for Mr. Tinkham is looking for a democratic scapegoat upon which to fasten the blame for our lack of sugar and not for the real cause of the near-famine conditions that exist.

A SUB-POST OFFICE

It is unfortunate that Lowell's post office is located so far from the business heart of the city in Merrimack square. Since it is placed where it is and it is not practical to change the site, the members of the chamber of commerce, and other leaders in the city's commercial world, should see to it that the proposal to establish a sub-station at some point readily accessible is promptly carried out.

The project should not be allowed to become quiescent because there has been no acceptable response made to the advertisement for bids for the furnishing of suitable quarters. There should be, and doubtless are, buildings suitable for the purposes in question that can be secured for the government's use if diligent search is made for them. From now until June 10, the latest date when bids in answer to Postmaster Meehan's call may be submitted—such a search should be conducted with vigor and thoroughness.

EXPOSE THE "HECKLERS"

It is time the government should take in those so-called "Irish hecklers" and investigate by whom or by what agency they have been financed and drawn from widely distant cities at the same time, without the knowledge of any friend of Ireland. So far as can be judged their aim is to make the Irish ridiculous and thus confirm the lies of the Tory British press, that the Irish are riotous, lawless, disaffected and irresponsible.

When these Washington hecklers paraded up and down in front of the British embassy in Washington, they did what no sensible friend of Ireland would do. The Sun correspondents at the capital made some investigation as to the identity of these paraders and found there was not an Irish woman among them. At that time the leaders were actresses; their action was calculated to alienate the sympathy of the American people for the Irish cause. Their action in the senate and house on Tuesday could not fail to have the same effect. Their object now is, to prevent the house and senate from adopting even the substitute for the Mason resolution.

Daniel T. O'Connell, director of the Friends of Irish Freedom, declared that the heckling was wholly without authority from anybody connected with the Friends of Irish Freedom. Mr. O'Connell should have them investigated and exposed. They are doing the work of Ireland's worst enemies.

BOODLE CANDIDATES

Unintentionally perhaps, the present senate has done a good thing in exposing the scandalous extent to which money is being used by many of the candidates for the presidency in their campaign for delegates. The exposure of the Wood millions caused a sensation; but not a whit more so than the latest revelation that Governor Lowden's manager dumped $38,000 into the state of Missouri in order, if possible, to carry the delegation for him. Some of those who received lump sums with which to influence the vote told the senate committee that they had not spent it and intended to return it to Governor Lowden in case he should not be nominated. What other conclusion can be drawn from such political methods than that the agents of the candidates are distributing money for the purpose of influencing if not buying votes?

It is high time such corrupt methods were stopped. Congress is discussing plans by which the expenditures of such campaigns will be limited to what is unavoidable. Already the people are convinced that General Wood and his managers are the leaders in the excessive use of money in the campaign. These boodle methods are peculiarly republican. They reached their climax in the election of William McKinley when Mark Hanna told the corporate and other interests that if they furnished the money, he would furnish the kind of candidate they wanted.

Since that day, the custom has been tolerated until it has become a national scandal and until the candidates who cannot raise enormous funds, however worthy they may be, have no chance of success against those who put out millions for the purpose of winning support at the primaries or in the convention. It is not at all strange that already the charge is made that the presidency is liable to go to the highest bidder unless the boodle candidates are sent to the rear. They should all be defeated.

HIGH SCHOOL FOLLIES

Lowell, June 1, 1920.
Editor Sun.
Dear Sir: As a parent, who has children at the high school, I want to object to the habit now common among high school girls of using face powders and carrying vanity bags. I believe the girls, who are paying so much attention to their looks, are not thinking very much of their books. I think this practice should be stopped.

Very truly yours,
PARENT.

From various sources comes a note of criticism which we regret to learn is not without cause. It refers to the growing practice of high school girls in using paints and facial powders, even including rouge. It is most regrettable that young girls in the very bloom of youth, should damage their complexions by resorting to the methods of the vain, old maid, who wants to keep up an appearance of youth when under the effect of years, the color has left her cheeks and wrinkles have begun to appear. The moral aspect of the custom is even worse than the possible injury to the skin and the complexion. This silly practice should be abandoned. Young girls should remember that

"Beauty unadorned is the adorned of the most."

and that

"To add refined good to what the lip throws a perfume on the violet—"

"Is wasteful and ridiculous excess."

The "vanity bag" should be banished from the class room and the girls should go to school with their hair dressed for the day.

It is stated that this habit of powdering and primping has grown out of the recess dances and other social events in connection with the school. It is right, of course, that the high school pupils should have some enjoyment of this kind, but when it is carried to an extent that interferes with the real work of the school, it should be eliminated.

HELP THE FARMERS

From the farmers comes a complaint that the high wages demanded by labor and the shortage of skilled farm hands at any price, is becoming a most serious handicap to the production of normal crops. In the suburban towns many fields of onions and other crops are suffering from lack of attention because the farmers cannot pay men five dollars a day for eight hours. If they can get school boys after hours to do the weeding and light hoeing they will be satisfied for the present.

The shortage of labor on the farms is really much worse than is generally supposed. Many crops have been put in with the plow which is unsuited to the work, but lack of the men to handle the other machinery is the cause. The results will not be so good as where the planting was done in the approved scientific way.

It is useless to lecture the farmers this season upon scientific methods as they have not the men necessary to apply those methods. The rate of wages in the cities is continually advancing and still the people complain of the high cost of living. The very high prices have not yet reached the farmers, so far as their products are concerned, but in view of present conditions, they will be obliged to charge more for farm produce next fall.

It is difficult to keep men on the farms who insist on four or five dollars a day and time and a half for overtime, so long as they can get what they want in the city. It is time the people of the cities showed some interest in the farmers and tried to help them over their difficulties. Circumstances are against them this year and as the farmers are the great mainstay of the nation so far as the production of food is concerned the cities should co-operate with them. It is plain that a failure of the crops or even a short crop will mean higher prices for farm produce next fall and winter.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

By unanimous vote, the United States supreme court has set at rest the controversy which has raged for some time over the question whether the legislature of a state having the referendum provision in its constitution can ratify an amendment to the federal constitution, without submitting it to the people. The full court decides affirmatively and that settles it.

It appears, therefore, that so far as the legislatures of these referendum states acted for or against the 18th or the proposed 19th amendment, their action is legal and effective.

By this decision, the woman suffragists rejoice and the "wets" find that one of the reasons on which they based the hope that the 18th amendment would be overthrown, has vanished.

Two other important points await decision in connection with the 18th amendment. They are the validity of the amendment itself, which is assailed on the ground of state rights and, if the amendment is sustained, the validity of the Volstead act. The states are not of one mind on what is intoxicating and what is not. Furthermore, it is necessary to determine how the concurrent power provided for in the amendment shall be exercised. Perhaps one or other of these questions may be decided at the next session of the supreme court.

At the present time many of the states seem to believe that it is within their province to decide what is intoxicating and what is not. Some states would fix a standard of 2.75 per cent for wine or beer and others less, even as low as half of one per cent. It is absolutely necessary that the court should pass on this point as soon as possible so as to secure uniform action in the enforcement of the law. At present there is utter confusion on this point, although the enforcing officials claim that the alcoholic content fixed in the Volstead act, must rule in all the states, so far as beverages are concerned.

SEEN AND HEARD

Some things improve with use, but credit isn't one of them.

Mixed in with the rest of the country's troubles is a deplorable shortage of thinking.

Desert Island Men

Behold a Fable. Two men, one a Capitalist and the other a Laborer, were once shipwrecked on a desert island. It was not entirely destitute of food, but the little there was could be obtained only by hard work. Neither of these men had any tools or money. They were alike in their needs, which were the same in the matter of food and shelter. The Capitalist was a college graduate and he had employed in his coal mine hundreds of men just like the Laborer. The Laborer was an average working-man, one of the mine's hundreds. For years he had looked upon the Capitalist as an enemy and had at times hated him good and hard. On the other hand the Capitalist had regarded the Laborer as so much muscle to dig coal for the Company at so much an hour. But now thrown together on this little island these two men had of necessity to become more or less acquainted. As time went on the Capitalist was surprised to find that the Laborer was not so ignorant or stubborn as he had taken for granted he was. There were many things the Laborer knew about the use of his body which the Capitalist did not know, and he was willing to do his part of the labor that each required to obtain food and shelter. On the other hand the Laborer found out that the Capitalist was not a bad sort. He had ability of his own kind and knew some things about agriculture and building that the Laborer did not know. One day one of these men saved the other man's life during a great storm which threatened to destroy their rude house. The acquaintance grew from mere knowing to real brotherhood. They found out that they were men first and Capitalist and Laborer afterward. This fable teaches that at least some of the misunderstandings and hatreds that men have for one another arise from ignorance of one another. Also that fundamentally all men have the same needs and that there is a meeting ground for common sympathy if men will only try to know and understand. Therefore, it would not be a bad plan if men all over the world who hate and misunderstand one another could be shipwrecked two by two on desert islands. But, alas! We very much fear there would not be islands enough.

Stomach, on a Strike
(Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)

I suppose tuberculosis is complicated by necrosis. Doesn't make the summer sky seem extra blue.

I suppose an active cancer doesn't make a mortal answer "Cheerily" to every stranger's "Howdydo?"

I suppose a "locomotor" doesn't make a modern voter start the morning with a long and lusty hike.

So perhaps one shouldn't hoister And ejaculate his cholera. When his trusty stomach goes upon a strike.

I suppose a martyr, boiling, in an overdose of oiling May have thought the exercises quite a bore.

And a saint in Rome's arena Nibbled by some old viceroy Did not always cry a vigorous "Encore!"

I suppose that it might fret me if some scandalist should get me. And should use my head to decorate a pike.

All these things might be unpleasant. But they don't compare, at present, With the outrage of a stomach on a strike.

It rejects all mediation. It refuses arbitration. And it scouts at pie, potatoes or poise.

Yes, no matter what I offer It's a sinner and a scoundrel. And it's bent on nothing else but sabotage.

O, it seems an ancient fable That I used to sit at table. And could prey on any edible I'd like.

Mith miserere! darn it! Gabriel blow your cursed cornet! Since my trusty tummy's gone upon a strike!

—Edmund Vance Cooke.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I happened to be in Boston the other evening and inasmuch as I had more than an hour to "kill" before getting a train to Lowell, I sat on one of the benches in the common, watching the various types of people passing through the avenues of the great reservation. After a while my attention was called to two youngsters, not more than nine or ten years old, who were making their way in and out of the row of benches, industriously collecting newspapers that had been left on the seats or ground. They were working as though the fate of a nation depended on their collecting every single paper lying around the common. When they had gathered a handful they would make their way to a little oval where they piled up their collections and went forth in search of more. Finally a bit of a breeze came up and the neatly arranged pile of papers started to scatter. The older of the youngsters noticed it at once and gave immediate orders to his companion to sit on the pile so that the papers wouldn't be blown away. The latter demurred at first, evidently wanting to take a more active part in the industry, but the older boy settled matters abruptly by pushing the younger onto the pile and there he sat. I didn't get a chance to inquire what disposition was to be made of the papers, but I assume that either the boys were being employed by the city or else were collecting the papers with a view to selling them to some junk collector. If the latter were the case, then they were performing the doubly commendable function of keeping the common clean and spending their time with financial profit.

It seems to be a reasonable and proper plan for patrons of the electric cars to have the correct fare ready when they enter or leave the cars. It saves time both for the passengers and the conductors, but above all it tends to preserve the regularity of the time schedules and thus benefit the public. There is hardly a more uncomfortable position than to have to wait in a crowd for a chance to enter an electric car, simply because some passenger neglected to have the correct fare and handed a bill to the conductor. Furthermore, in many instances the people who complain of the car service are those who cause delay by failure to co-operate. Many of those who delay the service by requiring conductors to change bills are the very ones who become disturbed when the cars are a few minutes late.

Perhaps others have noticed that when there is a repair gang on the car track in any curved street they post two flags, each about 100 feet apart, some 200 feet ahead of the gang and around a curve so that the motorman of an approaching car will be reminded of the working men and give them timely warning by sounding the car whistle. The motorman in an electric car approaching workmen from around a curve, probably could not see them until he had come close upon them when it would be almost impossible to stop the car before injuring some of the men. At the first flag the motorman is supposed to sound the whistle or the gong to warn the workmen and at the second flag the danger zone starts where care must be taken in passing the workmen.

The immortal Bard of Avon speaks of the "harmless necessary cat." Cats may be necessary. They doubtless have their uses as mouse-catchers and as pets, but that they are all harmless is questionable. A few afternoons ago the Man About Town walking along one of the quiet streets in the Highlands saw one of the felines crossing a lawn with a small bird crushed between its jaws that was dripping with the blood of its victim. Such occurrences are by no means rare as every observer knows. The cat is a predatory animal, and while it may be content at times to feed upon milk, cream and sponge cake provided by indulgent owners, it much prefers to hunt and capture the prey that will serve as food. A poster furnished by the conservation department of the Massachusetts fish and game commission has recently been put up in a number of places in Lowell calling attention to the destruction of bird life that can be charged up to felines. It states that the cats cause the death of more birds than all other causes combined, and it recommends that all owners of cats shall take pains to see that their pets are kept under observation and control from now until the middle of August to reduce the slaughter as much as possible. When one considers the part that the birds play in destroying the numerous insect pests which menace the crops of farm and garden, the advice would seem to be of a sort that should be heeded.

Dr. Raturu J. Meigs, who spent last winter in Florida, is a great admirer of Palm Beach county. He states that Harry Kelsey, owner of the chain of Waldorf lunches, has organized a company and purchased 100,000 acres of land running from the shore of Lake Worth to Lake Okechobee, a distance of 25 miles. The company is to build a city to be known as Kelsey City. Already the nucleus of the future city is seen in a cluster of some 50 houses, while a planing mill, a brick factory and other machinery for producing building material, have been established. A citron grove has been planted and other agricultural projects are in progress. On the beach side buildings to cost over two and a half million dollars are under construction and there is great development in every direction. The hotel rates at the time Dr. Meigs returned, some weeks ago, were not much different from those of last year. Asked if prohibition had effected any change in the patronage of the beach, he said "No. If the people who go there want liquor, they usually bring it with them. If not they can go to the Bahamas, a distance of 50 miles by hydroplane which makes regular trips for the accommodation of those who want to quench their thirst in the old fashioned way. The Florida old timers have been put in charge of schools down there and their nurses are doing excellent work for the people, both white and black."

Recently a Boston company started to raise sugar cane in Florida. If this experiment succeeds, and it may, as parts of Florida are quite productive, a valuable addition to the domestic supply of sugar may be effected. The state of Florida is as big as all New England and is dotted all over with lakes.

NO DECISION

Move to Quash Indictment in Wm. M. Wood Case

NEW YORK, June 3.—A motion to quash the federal indictments returned last week against the American Woolen Co. of New York, the American Woolen Co. of Massachusetts and William M. Wood, president of both companies, charging them with profiteering in sales of wool cloth, was argued before Judge Julian W. Mack in United States District court here yesterday.

No decision was rendered. Judge Mack directing opposing counsel, Chas. Evans Hughes for the defendants and Herbert C. Smythe, special counsel for the government, to submit briefs not later than next Tuesday.

Mr. Hughes, in arguing for the motion, contended the indictment, which contained 14 counts alleging 14 sales of cloth at "unjust and unreasonable" prices, did not charge any crimes. He maintained that cloth or pieces of cloth alone are not wearing apparel and that sales of cloth do not constitute sales of wearing apparel under the Lever act, which, the indictment charges, was violated.

Mr. Hughes maintained that wearing apparel and foodstuffs differ in that food is usable without other preparation than that of nature, while cloth does not become clothing until fashioned into garments.

Mr. Smythe, in his opposing arguments, declared that cloth, made for wearing apparel, was used for no other purpose and could not be used for any other. He contended that the sale of cloth which was intended to be fashioned into clothing comes within the provisions of the act.

LOWELL BOY SCOUTS TO OPEN CAMP

Lowell council of the Boy Scouts is preparing to open its camp at Keyes pond in August with more features for the entertainment and recreation of the boys than in previous years. A larger registration than usual is expected.

The camp is to be in charge of Scout Executive Read L. Ripley who will have the help of competent assistants and tent leaders. The boys are to live in army tents and it is promised that an abundance of wholesome, well-cooked food will be served them.

The day at the camp will start with the sounding of reveille which will be followed by morning ablutions and stretcher exercises. After breakfast there will be a brief talk by the camp director and announcements of interest to the boys will be made. The morning will be largely devoted to practice and demonstration of scoutcraft, passing of tests and woodcraft. In the afternoon there will be games, contests and hikes. After supper there will be a campfire with singing and story-telling.

There will be a chance for swimming twice a day—for half an hour before dinner and for 10 minutes late in the afternoon. A lifeboat and crew will be stationed off shore to guard against accidents.

THE ADRIATIC QUESTION

Premier Nitti of Italy Makes New Compromise Proposals to Jugo-Slavia

PARIS, June 3.—Premier Nitti of Italy has made to Jugo-Slavia new compromise proposals intended to solve the vexed Adriatic question, says a Laibach despatch to the Matin.

President Wilson's stipulations relative to the eastern boundary of Julina Venetia has been followed, with a few slight modifications, which are for the purpose of assuring the defense of the city of Trieste, it is said. Abruzzo, just west of Fiume, would be under Italian sovereignty. The harbor, however, would be placed under the administration of the League of Nations and the suburb of Bakar would be given to the Jugo-Slavs. With the exception of Lusina and Operza, situated in the Gulf of Quarnero, southwest of Fiume, all the islands along the coast would go to Jugo-Slavia, which country would also receive all of Dalmatia except the port of Zara, for which an autonomous government is planned.

THE DAYS OF REAL SPORT

When You Went Fishing
With Dad and Got the
First Nibble

Figure it any way you like; take any boy you choose and still you will find that all the ideas that originate in his head there are at least two in the way of desires or longings that are always sure to tug at the lad's heart-strings some day. They are as surely a part of boyhood, real, red-blooded boyhood, as the scratch is a quality of woolen underwear; as inevitable as the asafetida bag during an epidemic of diphtheria.

Every dog has his day—boys are not excluded. The time came, at last, when the little fisherman was repaid in full, and with interest, too, for the one disregard that had been paid his prowess as a provider of the brainy diet.

This happened just about the time all the trees had managed to get into their new green clothes—it was just such a day as you would imagine it would require to make Mr. Lowell bubble over, as he did when he wrote, "What is so rare as a day in June?" Just after a hearty dinner—one that was complete and managed without a speck of knives and forks—dad came out on the porch making ready to kindle his after-dinner smoke. While he slowly loaded up his pipe the combination of everything—the green things, the warm, bright sunshine darkened now, just a trifle, by a fleecy cloud—nor should we forget the rich refreshing breeze—seemed to steal over him like a spell of sickness; yes, he felt himself slipping.

"Son, if you will dig some worms, we will go fishing this afternoon; the day looks right, the wind is in the

Weakness—Anaemia

I had been suffering from general weakness, dizziness, and palpitations for several months, to such an extent that I could not go outdoors at all. I also had sore back, and felt worse on getting up in the morning than the night before. I had often read in the newspapers of the excellent results obtained by the use of R E D PILLS for Pale and Weak Women, and so this prompted me to try them too. I did not regret doing so, for soon after my health improved in many ways.

Never a corn on millions of feet nowadays

Do you know that millions of people who use Blue-jay keep entirely free from corns?

If a corn appears it is ended by a touch. A Blue-jay plaster or a drop of liquid Blue-jay is applied.

The corn pain stops. Soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The method is scientific. It is gentle, easy, sure. Old-time harsh treatments are supplanted by it with everyone who knows it.

It is made by a world-famed laboratory, which every physician respects.

It is now applied to some 20 million corns a year. You can see that corn troubles are fast disappearing.

Then why pare corns and keep them? Why use methods which are out-of-date?

Try this new-day method. See what it does to one corn. You will never forget its quick and gentle action. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

A Word of Help to Women
of Middle Age From
Mrs. Raney.

Morse, Okla.—"When I was 45 years old Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carried me through the critical period of the Change of Life in safety. I am over 60 and have raised a family of eight children and am in fine health. My daughter and daughters-in-law recommend your Vegetable Compound and still take it occasionally myself. You are at liberty to use my name if you wish."—MRS. ALICE RANEY, Morse, Oklahoma.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. This good old-fashioned root and herb remedy may be relied upon to overcome the distressing symptoms which accompany it and women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Jerked—only to be cautioned regarding the necessity of remaining quiet and the fallacy of jerking too quickly. "Wait until it pulls the cork clear under," were you father's instructions.

Soon you found it the hardest thing in the world to watch your cork incessantly. Gradually it began to dawn on you that possibly, after all, fishing from a boat was not the same keen

sport as that which you found for yourself—

"Watch your bobber," calmly instructed your father.

And, sure enough, it was gone. You pulled, you had something. Swish! you pulled harder and harder, you gained. Swish! again, the line fairly cut the water.

But, by now, you had him to the surface; excitedly you clutched your line and pulled the fish into the boat—a bluegill—one of those wide ones, a little pink on the belly and a blackish blue on the back. Wasn't he a dandy? Weren't you tickled? He was the first to go on the stringer—and you had caught him, too.

And, thus catching a few here, moving to another place and catching a few more, you spent what, after the first fish, was the greatest afternoon you had ever had.

The anchors up, the lines carefully wound around the poles and the poles snugly tucked under the seats, the fish in the boat, you were surprised to see your pop take from the tackle box, a long, heavy trolling line, neatly wound on a stick, just as you had always wound your kite string.

"Now we'll try for a bass while going back," was the matter-of-fact manner in which he enlightened you.

In open-eyed wonder you watched him take a large spoon contraption, to which was attached a bunch of hooks cunningly concealed among a bunch of duck-tail hair; this was securely fastened to the end of the line and after trying it to see that the spoon revolved properly it was thrown out and you were instructed how to pay it.

Tightly you held the line which trembled jerkily as the large spoon twirled in the water. The boat neared, and passed, a little point of land—a point that jutted out into the water, just like the teacher had explained in a "geography" lesson—a piece of land must extend into the water in order to form a bay—a bay was that long word? It began with p—p—e—n, ugh!

"Oh, pop, I've caught the peninsula!"

It was jerked out of you.

Zip! you held on for dear life; the line went taut with a jerk that fairly made your teeth click. Then, out of the water leaped a big, black fellow. You could plainly hear the big spoon jingle and rattle. Down he went with a big splash.

Zip! how that line did sing when he ran to the side. But here one of dad's big, long arms reached out ahead of you and took the line from your trembling fingers.

Once again the monster for monster it was to your eye, shot out of the water. Viciously he rattled the out spoon—you could see it all plainly now, first because he was nearer, second because the responsibility had been taken away from you. There he was, a shiny, quivering mass, exerting every possible effort known to his cunning to liberate himself from those hooks. Ah! he was a beauty as he described that are in the air.

Back he went to the bottom—there he aulked, while pop slowly pulled and pulled.

Swish! he tried to run again but could go only a short distance. His moves, however, were yet as quick as a flash. Dad continued to pull the line in, hand over hand. Up he came, closer and closer—

He tried to go under the boat, but your father was too quick—into the boat he came instead. Then, that silvery, shining mass of aquatic disturbance was yours—yours to show, yours to tell about, yours never to be forgotten—your first "lunker." (Cee!—but he was a peach-oreno.)

RHEUMATISM

Deep Seated Lipo Arid Depositions And Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poisons Start to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours

Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if two bottles of Allenbur's sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenbur's has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenbur's, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenbur's decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed every druggist, to guarantee it in every instance.—Adv.

Lift Off Corns!

Doesn't hurt! Lift touchy corns and calluses right off with fingers

Apply a few drops of "Freezone" upon that old, bothersome corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting. Then shortly you lift it right off, root and all, without pain or soreness.

Hard corns, soft corns, corns between the toes, and the hard skin calluses on bottom of feet lift right off—no humbug!

House-dresses Aprons Maids' uniforms

Always fresh and spotless—now
that washing is so easy

"I GUESS I can make that apron do another day."

Hasn't the best housekeeper in the world been guilty of it? That apron or that dress made just one thing more to wash. One thing more to scrub and boil and get hot and tired over. It seemed as if you'd never get through washday.

But now there is a new way without any of the toil and drudgery that used to make washing so terrible. Try it just once—the new Rinso way.

Rinso is the new form of soap in granules—for your family washing. You soak your clothes in the rich suds overnight. Or for three hours in the morning. Then rinse—that's all.

No hard rubbing—no boiling

You do away with rubbing except for very badly soiled places, such as collars, wristbands and hems. And these you need only rub lightly between your hands. Rinso is so pure and so high in cleansing value it simply soaks the dirt out of the clothes. Then, when you rinse, the dirt floats right out.

You do away with boiling entirely unless you wish to boil your clothes, occasionally, to sterilize them. You do away with half the work on your clothes. Because it's the hard rubbing and boiling that wear out the fabrics and fade out the colors.

Use Rinso for your whole washing. Get it from your grocer today. The easy directions are on the package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux).

You can keep plenty of clean things on hand now—it's no work at all!
